

Understanding Reached on City Hall Site

By LYNN MULVANEY KINGSTON

Meadow Street has made the grade, according to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, and another obstacle on the road to a city hall Downtown has been removed.

A "stunned" mayor found himself "in the middle" early this week when he learned that the grade for Meadow Street which he thought was to be five feet above the present level of the street, would actually be 15 feet.

"When I saw that manhole up there, (15 feet above Meadow Street), I was stunned," Garraghan said today, commenting on the latest in a string of urban renewal happenings.

Caught in Middle

The mayor, upset Thursday because he felt he was caught in the middle of conflicting Meadow Street and City Hall construction plans, said he now realizes the grade established at 15 feet is "necessary for the safety of traffic and pedestrians" and won't interfere with the building of City Hall.

He had originally been led to believe that the elevation would be only five feet, having been told that by former urban renewal officials a year and a half ago. "I took it for a fact," he declared.

Garraghan, who met Thursday with Urban Renewal Director James Connors, and the engineers, Brinnier and Laros, told Connors in a letter today that he is now sympathetic to the Meadow Street grade and intersection with the new arterial and Broadway in the Downtown project.

The mayor did add, however, that he insists that Connors co-operate with the county engineers "to make sure the 'fill' under the proposed sidewalks on Meadow Street is well compacted so that there will be no danger of erosion . . .

"If this is not done properly it could prove to be a liability to the city in years to come," he concluded.

The mayor said original plans for the area did not show elevations and that he had no way of knowing that the 15-foot rise was contemplated.

A report of the engineers sent to Connors states that Meadow Street will be a four lane roadway and in order to have the approach to Broadway and the approach to the arterial route at a reasonable and safe grade, it is necessary to place fill in Meadow Street and by doing reduce the grade from Broadway to the arterial by eight and one-half per cent.

The engineers, describing the site, say that assuming the first floor elevation of the proposed City Hall will be level with Broadway, which has a very steep grade in this area, and assuming that City Hall will set back some distance from Meadow Street, the fill will not appear objectionable. Also assuming the basement floor of City Hall will be exposed, as is standard in this type of site construction, Brinnier and Laros do not feel a great deal of fill will be required for the City Hall parcel, and certainly not as a result of the fill in Meadow Street.

A shopping plaza is to be developed immediately below Meadow Street to the south, generally following the elevation of Broadway.

Answers Question

The report also answers a question the mayor directed to the engineers concerning when they propose to do the sewer work and the sidewalks, curbs and repaving of Broadway.

Brinnier states that he told the mayor that this work was up to the urban renewal agency but that as engineers for the agency, they contemplated having the plans and specifications and receiving bids for the work in the late summer of this year.

The sewer work and the filling could be completed this fall, Brinnier states, "but the paving, curbing and sidewalk work would have to be completed next spring."

The engineers' report was made at the request of Connors who asked for a study of the Meadow Street road grade relative to its effect on the proposed site for the new City Hall.

Cragmoor

A formal finding of death by asphyxia due to drowning was recorded today by Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp in the case of 9-year-old Michael Wunderlich of North Water Street, Ossining, who was killed when he fell 40 feet down a crevice in the Ice Caves Mountain resort.

The tragedy marred a school vacation outing for the victim's mother, a brother and several of his friends from the Westchester County city on Friday.

The boy and his brother, Ted Wunderlich Jr., 17, and a friend, John Boudion, 16, were wending their way in a dark, forbidden part of the Ice Caves, when Michael reportedly darted in front of the others and stepped off a ledge in the darkness. He plunged screaming into the two-to-three foot crevice and landed face down in the five-foot deep River of Mystery.

The victim's brother stood at the brink of the opening calling to the fallen boy while Boudion ran through the darkness into the daylight and shouted to Mrs. Theodore Wunderlich that Michael had fallen down the cliff.

Rescue Groups Arrive

Screaming for help and hysterical, the woman rushed to the reception area and reported the tragedy. Calls were made to mutual aid and within minutes rescue groups were speeding to the resort area, that became a national landmark last fall.

The Cragmoor Fire

Department and First Aid Squad arrived in a short time, followed by Ellenville police department members and a utility crew from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

Powerful spotlights and rescue equipment were carried to the cave opening, as efforts were launched to recover the victim of the tragedy.

Crews moved cautiously through the cave with the lights. As they peered down the steep crevice they saw the still body of the young victim, sprawled face down in the shallow waters of the River of Mystery.

Troopers James E. Kelly and Douglas H. Dymond of Ellenville substation, assisted rescue crew members in directing the delicate operations.

A human chain was systematically formed. Three teen-age boys from Dumont, N.J., who were not identified, and Thomas Mansfield, an Ellenville street department worker, were the last links in the human chain and the first to raise the body of the 9-year-old tourist.

Lift Body From Water

Authorities said that Kenneth Burke, 17, of Dumont, shinned down a rope to the bottom of the jagged rocky cliff to the river. Burke lifted the body of Michael from the water. A rope was secured to the victim, and those in the human chain slowly began heaving motions until Mansfield managed to reach out and get a hold of the lifeless form, which was passed from one to another until it was on safe ground.

Coroner Chipp of Kerhonkson examined the body for signs of life. First aid crew members applied artificial respiration, but were unable to revive the boy.

An ambulance removed the dead child to the Ulster County morgue in Kingston Hospital, where an autopsy was performed late yesterday.

The body was later turned over to representatives of the Leach and Thomas Funeral Home from Ossining, who will be in charge of funeral arrangements.

The grief-stricken mother of the dead boy was taken to Ellenville police headquarters where volunteers tried to comfort her. The family was later taken to Ossining by an off-duty patrolman.

The Wunderlichs and others from Ossining arrived at Ice Caves Mountain yesterday morning. They bought entrance tickets and toured the mountaintop site including Sam's Point lookout, using maps that were provided them with the tickets.

Back Into Caves

After hours of traveling along the mountain site, which lies deep in the scenic heart of the Shawangunk Mountains that link the Orange-Ulster county line between Ellenville and Pine Bush, the Wunderlich brothers and Boudion decided to go back to the caves to again explore. They started at the end of the newly discovered crystal chasm instead of going to the beginning of the tour.

Inside they reportedly left the fenced area, and ignoring warning signs, walked to a cave-like entrance, which is considered a forbidden area for visitors. Ted was walking ahead with a flashlight when his younger brother passed in front of him and suddenly disappeared in the opening.

The boy's death was the first at the popular tourist attraction, since it was leased to private park owners two years ago. The park, which opened Tuesday for the season, became a national site late in 1968.

Harvard Vote: Drop Charges

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — By an almost unanimous faculty vote, Harvard has decided to drop criminal trespass charges against nearly 20 students ejected from an administration building sit-in by club-swinging police at dawn Thursday.

"We deplore the forcible occupation of University Hall" by the students and "we deplore the entry of police into any university," the faculty said in a resolution adopted by vote of 396 to 13.

The faculty acted as thousands of students boycotted classes to protest the summoning of police. Moderate groups as well as those led by Students for a Democratic Society, which had led the sit-in Wednesday, took part in the planned three-day strike.

Estimates of the number of boycotting students varied from 3,000 to 8,000 out of a student body of 15,000. There were no official figures.

The faculty resoution said primary blame for the episode must rest with those who illegally took possession of the administration building.

Dean Ford said that some of the stolen files were duplicated in an issue of "Old Mole," a self styled "radical bi-weekly."

These duplications included a copy of a letter from a Harvard professor who wrote he was informing Harvard, at the direction of the Central Intelligence Agency, that he had been a consultant to the CIA for 10 years.

Others included letters from McGeorge Bundy, a former Harvard dean and later a White House adviser, about a trip former Prof. Henry Kissinger made to Vietnam for the government. Kissinger is now an aide to President Nixon.

The SDS, which led the sit-in Wednesday in part to protest Harvard affiliation with the military Reserve Officers Training Program, picketed several classroom buildings, but hundreds of students walked through the lines.

Random House Executive Arrested in Drug Raid

TOWN OF POUGHKEEPSIE

Six persons, including the vice president of Random House Publishing Company, Jason L. Epstein, were arrested by Town of Poughkeepsie police late last night on charges of criminal possession of a dangerous drug, marijuana.

Epstein, 40, who listed his address at 33 West 67th Street, was arrested shortly after 10 p.m., Friday, with five other persons, three of whom told authorities that they are writers.

Town Police officer Allen

Clouser was on routine patrol Friday night when he spotted a panel truck bearing Mexico license plates on Poughkeepsie's South road. As he approached the vehicle for a check of its occupants, he said he saw someone throw a paper from the truck. Clouser then radioed for other officers who were in the area.

Examination of the paper disclosed a quantity of marijuana, according to Town Police Sgt. George Lochner.

Taken to Town Police headquarters, the six persons identified themselves as:

Meredith Maran, a 17-year-old writer, of 260 East 7th Street; Alice Embree, 23, a researcher, of 109 Norfolk Avenue; Jeffrey Dugardyn Shro, 26-year-old writer, of 197 Norfolk Avenue; Connie W. Brown, 26-year-old secretary, of 149th West 4th Street, and Epstein, all of New York City, and Paul B. Steiner, 17, of Rancho De Taos, Mexico, who told police he is a writer.

Epstein told authorities that he is vice president of Random House. Steiner was charged with driving without a license.

The six defendants were arraigned before LaGrange

Town Justice Erven E. Meddaugh. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each and hearing was adjourned until April 16.

In lieu of bail, the six were committed to the Dutchess County Jail. Judge Meddaugh also fixed bail at $50 for the vehicle and traffic charge against Steiner. He could not post bail.

A spokesman for the Dutchess County sheriff's office told The Freeman that he expected bail on the six persons "would be posted sometime today." He said that all six have been mugged and fingerprinted.

New Paltz Planning Board Gets Shopping Center Plans

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

NEW PALTZ

Plans for a new shopping center on the south side of Route 299 opposite Duzine Road with a Grand Union Supermarket as its focal point were revealed by Town of new Paltz Planning Board this week.

A revised plan for the proposed shopping center was received by the Planning Board early this week from Kline Associates, Poughkeepsie, representing DRH Enterprises Inc., Poughkeepsie.

The site is the four-acre tract on the former Richard Lent property, it was reported at the Wednesday night session of the Town Board. At that time a letter was received by Supervisor Anthony Moriello requesting extension of the village sewer district lines along upper Main Street to provide service for the new facility. Moriello said the Town and Village Boards would confer on the matter. However the Town Board went on record in favor of the formation of a new sewer district to include that portion of upper Main Street. It was pointed out that all homes and businesses along the proposed extension route would have the option to tie into the village sewer line, if the extension is approved.

James Kline and Raymond Torrell of Kline Associates showed the Planning Board a plot plan on which clearing operations have already started,

The plan proposes a 24,000 square foot Grand Union Supermarket and other stores of about 10,000 square feet each.

The developers have already been advised by the State Transportation Department that they have approval of two access lanes proposed for upper Main Street at the front of the site.

The plan as submitted must also be approved by Ulster County Planning Board because the site borders on a state highway.

It was reported at the meeting of the Planning Board that James Spratt, planning consultant for the board will make an on site inspection April 14. The Grand Union firm currently operates a Grand Union market at Route 32 and Main Street in the village, and an Empire Market on Main Street east of the village center. The disposition of these markets after the new Grand Union is in operation was not revealed by the firm.

13 Reds Are Killed By Marines at DMZ

By WALTER WHITEHEAD

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines killed 13 Communists moving into the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), military spokesmen said today. Allied troops killed 81 Communist soldiers in six offensive operations from the DMZ to the Mekong Delta.

Communists blasted 30 towns and military bases Friday night and early today in their intensified series of attacks. The Communists fired rockets and mortars at 45 such points the previous night.

B52 bombers dropped nearly a million pounds of bombs on Communist troop concentrations, base camps, bunker complexes and weapons positions northwest and east of Saigon Friday night and early today, military spokesmen said.

Four Americans were killed Friday when a Communist groundfire shot down a U.S. Marine CH46 helicopter in Quang Nam Province in the nation's northern quarter. The twin-engine chopper crashed eight miles north-northwest of An Hoa.

The Marines were ordered to fire into the six-mile-wide Demilitarized Zone separating North and South Vietnam after 20 Communist troops were spotted moving into the buffer zone.

American spokesmen said U.S. Marine artillery fired into the DMZ at the Communists a half-mile inside the southern edge of the zone and six miles west-southwest of Con Thien. An aerial observer spotted 13 bodies after the barrage.

It was the 76th "significant" incident in the DMZ since the United States halted bombing of North Vietnam last Nov. 1, 82mm mortar fire.

Paltz Village Budget Assessment Up $1.28

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

NEW PALTZ

A preliminary village budget in New Paltz totaling $453,577.50 unveiled at a public hearing this week will reflect in a slight increase, $1.28 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

General fund expenditures are listed at $302,616. Other department budgets include $98,150 Water District and $52,811.50 sewer district.

A total of $151,205.20 will have to be raised by taxation under the preliminary budget. Changes if any can be made prior to adoption by the Village Board, which will meet Monday, April 28.

Estimated revenues under the preliminary budget will total $302,372.30 and includes state aid, water metering charges, sewer rents and other fees collected by the village.

The slight increase in the tax rate is attributed to wage increases given to village employees. It was pointed out that the village trustees did not vote themselves a raise this year.

A slight increase in the total assessments within the village was also noted.

As in previous years, no taxes will have to be raised for maintenance of the Water and Sewer Districts. Holding the line on Water District appropriations was possible despite the fact that the village began payments on a long term debt of $500,000 for water district improvements.

The water tax remains the same and this is due to the State University College payment of 70 per cent of water improvements costs.

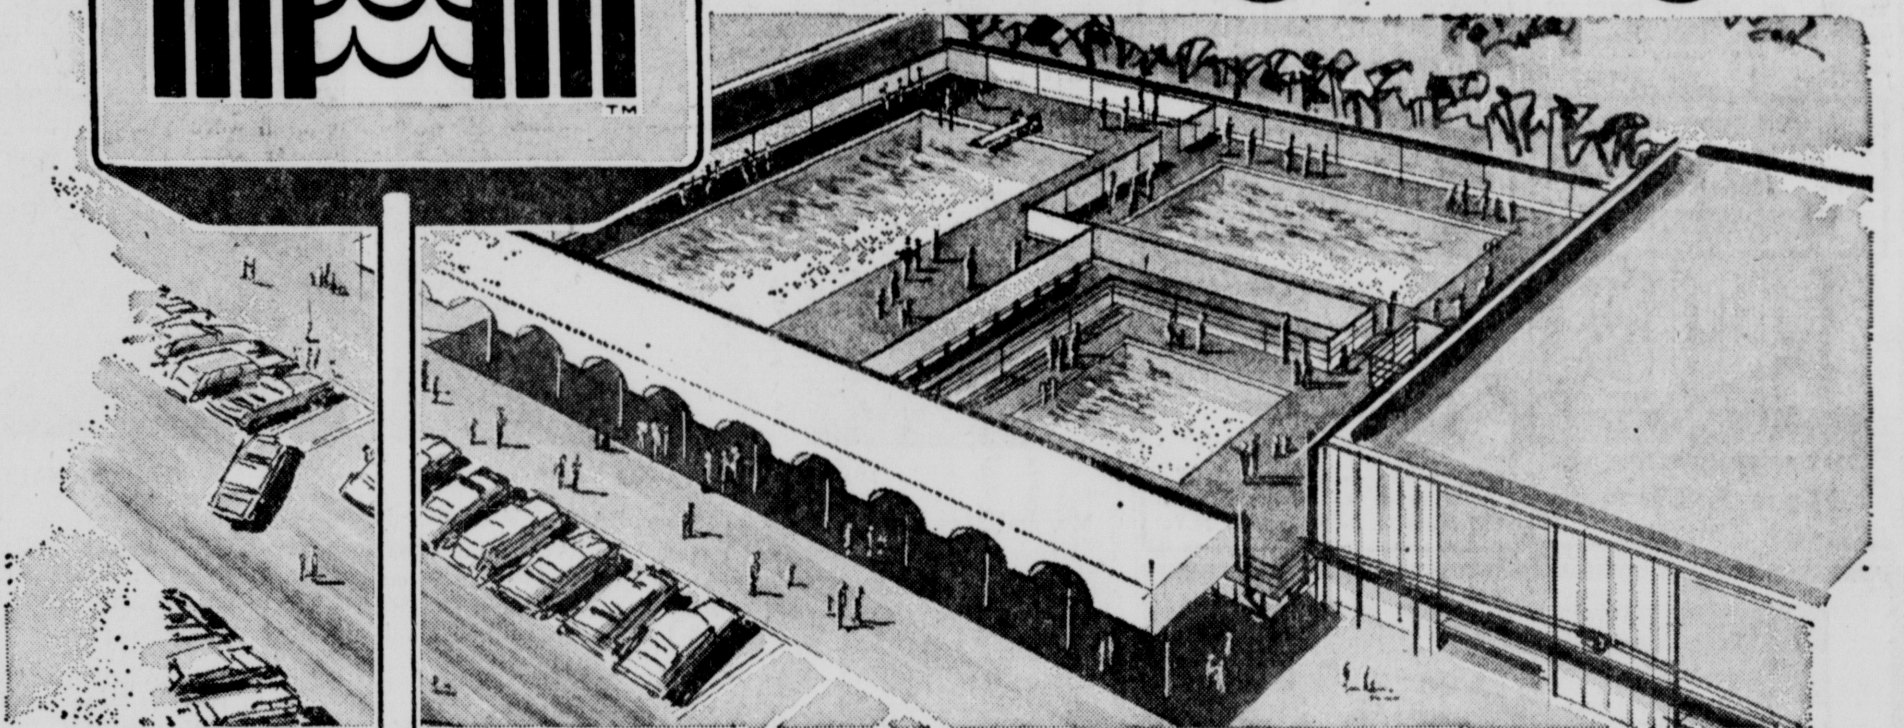

Special reserves set up in the preliminary budget, some accumulating from previous years, include Assessment $8,000; Fulton Street Extension $25,000; Parks and Playgrounds $3,000; Fire Equipment $4,500 and Village Garage Addition $10,000.

SKIING IN BIKINI—Spring skiing anyone? The sun was warm, the snow ideal for spring skiing, so 22-year-old Franki Beaton, a ski instructor at a Canadian resort, said "why not?" and went for a quick outing in her bikini. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
SHOWER NOT THE PLACE TO INTRODUCE BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Post: A good married, and I would like to give a small shower for his bride-to-be, as she does not live here in town. I thought it would be a nice way for the friends of the groom to meet her, but his aunts are driving me crazy saying it isn't "etiquette."—Mrs. S. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: Do give a party for the bride-to-be, but don't make it a shower. A shower should be made up of intimate friends of the bride so that there is no reluctance about bringing her a gift. This is not so when you invite people to meet a guest of honor for the first time, and some people might feel resentful about being obligated to take a present to a girl they do not know.

Guests at this sort of party need not be invited to the wedding; whereas guests invited to a real shower should be on the wedding list.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 12, 1969

Decency Crusade

Quite by accident, Richard Adler, composer and producer of hit shows, discovered on a lecture tour a year ago when women were elated when he denounced nudity and obscenity on the stage and on films. Later he found that most college students "have had it with bad taste." Together, they convinced him that the stage and screen are out of step with popular needs and demands today.

Adler thus started a one-man crusade to clean up the movies and theater. "I don't want to sound like an evangelist," said the writer of the music and lyrics of "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees." "I'm not a Puritan. I just think there is a better climate to be reached for the expression of the human spirit than we see generally, in so many instances, on our stage and screen."

Recently, a youth decency campaign was begun in Miami, Fla. Adler believes that if a march for decency were properly organized, thousands and thousands, and maybe even hundreds of thousand, of young people might join it.

We hope the producers of pictures and plays are listening. Their audiences are not alone in the big cities. They are also in the grass roots. That is where the voice of decency is crying out loud and clear.

Menace of False Alarms

The hazard of calling out the fire department in response to false alarms of fire need scarcely be labored. Neither does the malicious waste nor the peril of delay when fire companies are out chasing false alarms.

Every time the fire apparatus responds to an alarm, it costs the city money in wear and tear on equipment, as well as fuel in racing to the scene. There also is the ever present danger of an accident that may cost someone his life.

In the City of Kingston the last two evenings, there were nine false alarms turned in. Now it is up to the police authorities to catch the culprits and the courts to punish them.

When apprehended and convicted, it will make little sense for the courts to hand down small fines. There's not much of a deterrent example there.

The turning in of false alarms is a serious offense. Persons whose mentality is at such a low ebb that they can think of nothing better to do than ring a false fire alarm are a menace to the general public.

The certainty of receiving the limit in penalties imposed by law will be the greatest deterrent.

Help Yourself and Others

Thousands of Cancer Crusaders throughout Ulster County will visit neighborhood homes next week distributing educational literature and seeking financial support for the American Cancer Society's research program. Medical men are engrossed in experiments in the hope that research will turn up a cure for cancer.

Two promising approaches to the retardation or cure of cancer are revealed by the American Cancer Society. In one, Dr. Joseph Leighton, professor of pathology at the University of Pittsburgh, tells of his discovery that cancer cells have a real form of social organization. He is experimenting with ways to interfere with the ordered grouping of the cells, hoping that this will arrest the development of breast cancer, prostate cancer and other solid tumors. This method might curb the spread of cancer, though it may not cure it.

Dr. David Berliner, professor of anatomy at the University of Utah, says cancer cells are more vulnerable to hormone treatments at some times than at others. By synchronizing the cell cycles in a tumor in patients, he believes that hormones applied during the vulnerable periods could kill the entire tumor.

Both these methods are still in their early stages. Research must be intensified and channeled.

We all have an opportunity in sharing in this great humanitarian endeavor by helping ourselves with a check-up and others with a check.

Perhaps the hardest task businessmen must face in the future is convincing their stockholders that investments in cities are investments in America's future. That is the opinion of Arch N. Booth, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

It is public policy that employers may not discriminate as to age, sex or color. Rep. James G. O'Hara, Michigan Democrat, objected to a request from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for women college graduates between the age of 25 and 50. Why not 65, he asked? Unfortunately, not many want to start a new career at 65, whether men or women.

The Maryland Public Service Commission found filth and defects in 97 per cent of the Penn-Central trains, other than the new Metroliners, and demanded a clean-up. The commission has power to enforce the order and means to do it. Maybe train riding will come back.

"Everyone Seems to Agree There Should Be a Traffic Light Here!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Peace and the Stock Market

Peace has a paradox vastly important and hardly known. Business and earnings typically go down in the 12 months following the end of a war, but the stock market goes up.

With the ending of World War I, World War II and the Korean War, each time, $1,000 invested in the Dow Jones industrials was worth $1,300 in less than a year.

The answer is emotionalism. This is the main fuel. But emotionalism is a stock market reality and, in any case, the prices created—not the realities regarding earnings—are the payoff.

Moreover, hardly known to our public, in many cases companies have been changing depreciation and amortization schedules and adopting many other internal accounting adjustments which inflate earnings to an extent that makes it nearly impossible to relate 1969 earnings to even the reasonably recent past.

Beyond this added confusion, the stock market moves on supply and demand and many — not values. And the market, of course is always anticipating the future, not reflecting the present. In fact, old Wall Street hands have a saying that the key to successful investing comes in anticipating the anticipations of others.

On the record, peace talks are mere seesaw periods. Today's Paris talks already have been going about half as long as the Korean talkathon at Panmunjom, and with similar seesaws. The Dow Jones industrials were at 250 when these talks began on July 10, 1951. But rallies are not like the dove from Noah's ark signaling that the flood is over. The market burst upward five times and fell four times and was still at only 270 when the war ended on July 27, 1953. Then, as business declined, the real stock market advance began.

Old Wall Street hands are currently wondering, however, about the base for this. There have been six major corrections in the uptrend since the end of World War II. The smallest fall was 13 per cent, the largest 27 per cent and the average 21 per cent. Today's market is now down about eight per cent from its high. Long term, this would hardly indicate that the present correction is over.

We've had immense speculation. Until 1965 there were only five days in the entire 173-year history of the New York Stock Exchange on which the volume reached 10 million shares or more. The first three ever staged were in 1929. The other two were in the 1962 break, when the market lost $116 billion in the first six months of that year. The year's Dow Jones averages' total travel that year, up and down, was 714 points. Still, the volume hit 10 million on only two days.

A New York Stock Exchange study in 1966 concluded that 10 million shares would be the average daily volume by 1975. Wall Street hooted at the figure as a pipe dream — far and away too high. Today when trading falls to 10 million it's actually called "a dull day" by brokers.

The great blue-chip, bellwether stocks are related to confidence — the confidence of sober investment money. The New York Stock Exchange lists about 1,300 common stocks and there are blue chips in nearly every industry. Incredibly, as few as 10 of the great, sober blue chips represent about a third of the value of all common stocks on the Big Board. Less than one per cent of the listed companies represents more than 30 per cent of the total listed worth. These 10 are: AT&T, General Motors, Standard Oil (N.J.), General Electric, IBM, DuPont, Texaco, Sears, Gulf Oil and Eastman Kodak. Yet, by and large, the great blue chips — containing the lion's share of all shareowners' money — have lost out in the parade. Accordingly, the phenomenon now is the market's enormous imbalance.

Mighty IBM that sold at 501 recently made another new low at under 300. Blue-chip U.S. Steel has been in a bear market all its own for a solid 10 years. It sold at 109, fell to 35, increased its dividend in 1967 and is still in the 40s. Wonderful GM fell from 113 to 65 in eight months and is still around 80. Jersey fell from 93 to 60, increased its dividend twice and is still around 80. And AT&T, which was 75, and also increased its dividend, sold down to 50 long ago and is still there.

South Korea Has Success On Curbing Student Riots

By RAY CROMLEY

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

SEOUL, KOREA (NEA) — The paradox is bewildering. Here we have a country where student rioters in 1960 were so successful they ousted the nation's president.

To understand the magnitude of this achievement, it must be recalled that President Syngman Rhee was to Korea what De Gaulle is to France. He had led the nationalist underground against Japan, unified the new nation.

In the demonstrations, 77 students were killed, several thousands wounded.

(South Korean students historically have not been intimidated by force; witness the outbreaks under the Japanese occupation in the 1930s.)

The 1960 riots were followed by others of great strength in the four years that followed.

Yet today, when the campuses of Japan, France, the United States and a flock of other countries are in on-again, off-again turmoil, South Korea's students seemingly go quietly about their studies.

To find out how the change took place, this reporter spent considerable time interviewing some of today's South Korean student leaders, professors and university officials, and one prominent former student leader from the 1960-64 period, who spent a term in prison for his activities.

First, the old timer. They had gone to the riots with great hopes of changing things. But they had no program of what to do when they were successful. Then they won. But it seemed to them that even after the old was destroyed, it came back again in the new. There was no real change. So what had they gained?

Second, the university officials. They're required to account personally to the government for disturbances on their campuses. They must report regularly on the current situation, what they're doing to prevent trouble, and any signs of trouble. One president of a college said a government official had threatened him with removal some time back unless he became more effective in keeping student unrest from showing itself at his school.

Third, the professors. The last major demonstrations brought police to the campuses. They acted strongly. They didn't go easy because these were students. "I think we all learned a lesson," said one.

At the same time, South Korea is now growing so rapidly that students see good jobs waiting for them on graduation. They're not so well off as in the United States where that may not mean anything. Most students have had little; they see a chance to be something.

Fourth, today's student leaders. University officials are accessible. "They listen to what we want to bring up. That makes demonstrations unnecessary." But there are political matters that would arouse the students as vigorously as in the past. "There's talk of changing the national constitution so the president can hold three terms instead of two. That would agitate the students. You'd see demonstrations countrywide. They wouldn't be light or mild. The students would mean business, as in 1936, 1960 and 1964."

Though a number of reasons for today's quiet came through in these talks, there's the underlying feeling that student riots, like revolutions, run their course and fade away. That isn't to say, of course, that a major stimulus would not set off a new round in a new generation of students.

Drew Pearson Says Intelligence Reports Blast Hopes for Vietnam Peace

WASHINGTON — Intelligence reports contradict the optimistic talk around Washington of an early settlement of the Vietnam war. High government officials are spreading the word that North Vietnam, recognizing the hopelessness of its military situation, can be expected to come to terms this year.

On the contrary, intelligence reports indicate that North Vietnam is pouring men and materials into the south for a last great battle. The communist aim, according to captured documents, is to capture Saigon by Ho Chi Minh's birthday, May 19, and rename it Ho Chi Minh City.

The clandestine "Liberation Radio," secretly monitored by the U.S., has been exhorting the Viet Cong "to achieve resounding victories to greet the forthcoming 79th birthday of President Ho on May 19. The great offensives of the south, together with the brilliant exploits of the north, will rejuvenate Uncle Ho, strengthen him and prolong his life, and will help the southern compatriots soon achieve their ultimate dream: to meet Uncle Ho in South Vietnam, in the midst of the jungles of victorious flags."

Another message, addressed to "Dear Saigon-Cholon-Gia Dinh Compatriots, living and fighting in the heart of the enemy's nerve center," declared: "You compatriots are entrusted by history and the people with a very heavy but also a very glorious task — knocking out the land grabbers and country-sellers in the last victorious battle."

"Heroic Saigon-Scholom-Gia Dinh is determined to be worthy of the title 'Brass Fortress of the Fatherland of the Heroic South,' worthy of our nation, worthy of the solicitude of brothers and friends the world over, and worthy of being called the Ho Chi Minh City."

The communist strategy, according to captured documents, is "to overthrow the country-selling and people-harming Thieu-Kieu clique and form a peace cabinet that can seriously negotiate with the (National Liberation Front)."

To carry out this objective, North Vietnamese troops are now moving down the Ho Chi Minh trails and across the DMZ in alarming numbers. No doubt Ho would like to follow and celebrate his 79th birthday in Saigon.

Dirksen's Job Drive
Everett Dirksen, the tubatoned Senate Republican Leader, has been rumbling petulantly over the Nixon administration's failure to provide employment for all his cronies. A devotee of the spoils system, he believes that government jobs should go to the Republican faithful, particularly those who have been faithful to Everett Dirksen.

The Seante GOP leader dramatically demonstrated his influence with President Nixon, however, when he publicly threatened to "go to the highest authority in this government to get somebody fired." The threat was aimed at Clifford Alexander, Jr., Negro chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, who was immediately defended by Sen. Ted Kennedy, the Democratic Whip. A few days later, true to his threat, Dirksen brought pressure upon the White House to force Alexander's resignation.

He has a list of deserving Dirksen Republicans whom he would like to plant throughout the federal government. Dirksen succeeded in installing one of his favorites, Robert Podesta, as Assistant Secretary of Commerce. Room was made at the Pentagon for another Dirksen loyalist, James Hittle, who was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Dirksen also took care of his chief Senate lackey, Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska, who helps him attend to the legislative wants of the drug, insurance, steel, firearms and other special interests. Hruska wanted to plant James Smith as the new Farmers Home Administrator. Dirksen obligingly helped to break through a roadblock that Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, the new Democratic National Chairman, had tried to raise in the way of Smith's appointment.

Dirksen also provided a backstage push that got Hruska's intemperate young assistant, Richard Velde, son of the former un-American Activities chairman, appointed Associate Law Enforcement Administrator at the Justice Department.

The tangle-haired Dirksen lost a bid to place another crony, John Chapman, in charge of the General Services Administration, which handles non-military government purchases. The White House explained to Dirksen that the No. 2 Senate Republican, Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott, deserved a little patronage too, and gave the job to Scott's former campaign manager, Robert Kunzig. To appease Dirksen, Chapman was appointed Deputy GSA Administrator.

The Senator from Illinois, however, is not easily appeased. There are still several names on his list.

Note: Dirksen also has been unable to replace the dedicated Veterans Administrator, William Driver, with a Dirksen man.

Merry-Go-Round

Lou Nichols, who left the FBI to become vice president of Schenley, the giant whiskey distiller, has told friends that he expects to succeed J. Edgar Hoover. Nichols believes he has the inside track with President Nixon, who is expected to keep Hoover on one more year, then retire him at last at the age of 75. Nichols, as a vice president of Schenley, has been a leading light in the strange circle of friends of liquor tycoon Lewis Rosen-stein, including the late Cardinal Spellman, Sen. Tom Dodd, Chicago press agent Julius Klein and New York attorney Roy Cohn. . . . Nixon is sidetracking the Kennedy-Johnson arts program. He let the term of Roger Stevens, chairman of the National Arts Council, expire. Maybe Dick remembers that it was Stevens who financed and produced Gore Vidal's "The Best Man," a highly successful satire on the man who was the Vice President, now President. . . . Al Lowenstein, freshman Democrat who's supposed to be seen and not heard, rallied a half-dozen Congressmen in bombarding the Spanish base deal as phony as the old Spanish treasure fraud. They helped cause the State Department to postpone the base agreement until the fall when it's hoped Congress will be on vacation.

Import Curbs Are Hardship For Farmers, Fuel for Inflation

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Inflation clearly has become the great bugaboo of the Nixon administration's early months, yet the President seems ready to propose textile import quotas which could make it a good deal worse.

Economic specialists suggest that prices on clothing and on fabrics for home furnishings may bound upward from 15 to 25 per cent, if European and other nations exporting textiles to America agree to the "voluntary" quotas Nixon appears to be seeking.

But the danger is much greater than that. The countries exporting to us cannot be expected to agree to curb their shipments of man-made fibers (cotton textiles already are under voluntary restriction as result of a John F. Kennedy move), without drawing some of our economic blood in return.

If Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans' mid-April visit to Europe starts us toward quota talks in Geneva, as presently indicated, then we may look for hard retaliation.

Even without any proposal from us on textiles, the European Economic Community has for months been on the verge of applying a special tax to oil seed products from abroad. This would strike directly at our $500 million yearly export of soybean items to Europe.

Our total annual export of soybean products is more than double that figure, and our market might suffer still more if other nations joined Europe in retaliatory moves.

Indeed, as has been noted in this column in months past, the whole push in Congress and beyond toward greater protectionism in the foreign trade field is a monumental threat to U.S. agriculture generally.

We export 45 per cent of our yearly soybean output, 50 per cent of the wheat crop, 60 per cent of our rice, more than 40 per cent of marketed feed grains, 36 per cent of the tobacco crop and roughly 30 per cent of U.S. cotton output.

One sees the matter most clearly when it is understood that one-quarter of all this nation's harvested-crop acreage is presently cultivated for foreign markets.

Those countries include many among the sizable list which sells us textiles and counts heavily upon those sales. Even without any retaliatory restriction by them, their ability to buy farm and other products from us would be impaired if quotas on textiles should be accepted. They need dollars to buy from us.

It is plain, then, that any protectionist quotas which either lead to retaliation or diminish foreigners' ability to buy here could have enormous repercussions in the U.S. farm economy — and beyond.

Reduced overseas markets for U.S. crops would send the farmers clamoring to the administration for backup financial support. Any such added federal outlays would only further fuel inflationary fires.

Moreover, there is no real indication that the President could halt the protectionist drive by moving on the textile front. New voluntarily quotas on steel imports were agreed to by other countries late last year, and a flood of protectionist proposals in other industrial fields is engulfing Congress.

One of the worst aspects of the whole perilous matter is that the textile industry has not made out a good case for general damage from imports. A U.S. Tariff Commission study published in 1968 said U.S. producers have enjoyed unparalleled growth since the 1960s and that corporate profits — along with sales, employment and investment — had increased.

According to some sources, textile industry profits in the first nine months of 1968 are said to have risen 35 per cent.

And, while imports are indeed growing rather rapidly, they still represent a small part of the American market (5.2 per cent of its wearing apparel in 1966). Much of the imported material, furthermore, requires additional processing in the United States.

Rick's interest was aroused by a book How to Play War Games in Miniature which he acquired about a year and a half ago. Members from Rhinebeck are Sung and Yung Chin, Ray Geiner, Kirk Hauck. Kingston boys in addition to Rick are Kevin and Greg Melah, Steve Fraton and Dave Rider.

A Kingston girl, Kathleen Saccaman of 114 Wall Street, is received a first class honor in the chorus of the College of St. Elizabeth production of The Trojan Women which will be staged May 9, 10 and 11.

The Euripides drama will be presented in English translation by Gilbert Murray. First presented in 415 BC, it has been called the greatest anti-war play ever written.

Miss Saccaman is a member of the class of 1969 at the Convent Station, N. J., college.

Another Kingstonian sing out at college is Mary-Alice Buntz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buntz of this city.

She is taking part today in the Grinnell College Choral Society and Orchestra concert on the Grinnell, Iowa, campus. An alto member of the 132-voice choral society, she will take part in performances of J. S. Bach Mass in F Major and the W. A. Mozart Mass in C Major (Coronation).

Closer to home Cheryl Matthews of Port Ewen received more honors this week as editor-in-chief of The Tower, student newspaper of Ulster County Community College.

Onteora Winners

BOICEVILLE Onteora students tied for first in a recent math contest at Kingston High School.

The junior high math team competed with six other schools to tie Saugerties at 13 all.

In the exciting fight to the finish, Onteora was behind three points when the final team of Pat Adels, Leslie Kalish, Elaine Knickmeyer, Peri Peekema and Ingrid Vogt finished first in the relay question adding the needed points to the Onteora score.

Other members of the team that entered in the competition are John Fitzsimmons, Sue Harris, Mardie Klinger, David Krueger, Roger Morse, Beth Riffenburg and Ann Vogt.

Guiding the team to victory were Mrs. Ruth Devereaux and William Chandler.

Meanwhile a panel of seventh graders assisted in an orientation program for sixth graders of all four elementary schools in the district. The day of orientation was designed to help approximately 250 students make the big step into junior high.

Participating in the panel were Robert Terwilliger, Sharon Donahue, Paul Melek, Sarah Northland, Pamela Vandemark and George Caulfield. They gave the sixth graders the junior high story as they know it.

Recently a record-industry magazine ran a huge ad announcing "April is Jerry Lee Lewis Month." That pronouncement drew a rousing "so what" from all-too-many people who read it. The Mercury Record ad was printed 10 years too late.

If a parallel can be drawn between the Golden Fifties and the Swinging Sixties, then Elvis must be compared to the Beatles of today, and Jerry Lee Lewis to the Rolling Stones. "Elvis the pelvis," as he was termed, shocked the adults when he shook his hips, but Jerry Lee shook everything—his shoulder-length golden hair, his audience, and seemingly, the four walls. Appropriately, his first hit was "Whole Lot of Shakin' Going On," which made a gold record in the spring of 1958.

Other Jerry Lee Lewis hits included "High School Confidential," "Breathless," and "Great Balls of Fire," (recently re-recorded, in a somewhat different style, by Tiny Tim.) Jerry Lee's trademark was his funky way with a bluesy lyric, and his pounding, frantic, sock-it-to-it style on a piano. A forerunner of such modern groups as the Who and the Hendrix Experience who smash their instruments, a session with Jerry Lee left many a good piano ready for the toothpick factory.

End of One Career

Like Elvis, Jerry was the product of the South, soul home of rhythm-and-blues. He was born a few months after Elvis,

Memorial Concert Plans Move Toward April Date

KINGSTON Ticket distribution for the Eileen Hansen memorial benefit concert is reported going very well.

The concert featuring The Collarmen will be staged April 24 at the John A. Coleman High School, Hurley Avenue Extension, through the efforts of the senior class and in fact all the Coleman students who remember Eileen.

A member of this year's senior class and a long time classmate of many of the students, Eileen died in March of leukemia. The concert is just one of a series of fund raising events planned by seniors who wish to create a fitting memorial through a large donation to leukemia cure research.

Goal Is Set

Michelle Scherer, one of the co-chairmen, said the goal has now been set at $3,000 to be donated to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. Earlier communication with the hospital indicated that doctors there were very close to a cure for the dread blood disease.

When students learned of this they set their sights on a high goal for funds. As Michelle said, "If they are that close to a cure how can we stop at $1,000 or even $2,000."

This is the spirit which all the students have shown in remembering Eileen with action.

Ticket sales have been going well for the concert despite the school lull of Easter holiday recess. Distribution has been augmented by many in the community Nurses at area hospitals, banks and business establishments have assisted and posters have blanketed the area.

Dutchess Helper

In addition to coverage on this side of the river, Dutchess County distribution is being carried out by teens who knew Eileen as a Red Hook neighbor.

The Collarmen who will lend their way with guitar and song to the cause are young seminarians at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus. They are well known throughout the Mid-Hudson area and are favorites with young and old. The program promises to please a variety of musical tastes in a swinging style.

The concert will start at 7:30 p.m. on April 24 at the high school auditorium.

Future fund raising events will take a varied route according to the planners. Further details will be released at a later date when events are finalized.

Who to See

Those wishing tickets in the Kingston area may contact Juli Crespinio, Cathy Howard, Donna Maurer, Michele Bonville, Maryann Brooks and of course, Michelle Scherer.

Contacts in the Dutchess County area are Sue Humphrey, Karen Quimby and Debi Day at Red Hook Central and Sue Winnie, Barbara and Dolores Hawley at Rhinebeck.

Plans are being made to provide bus transportation from Dutchess County for concert patrons from that area.

Easter Vacation Events Conclude With Dances and Pretty Parades

KINGSTON Easter vacation should have a smash finish with two social highlights on the agenda for tonight.

Taking their reading from the stars, the Immaculate Conception School students will hold a Zodiac dance at the school hall tonight from 7:30 to 11:30. Music will be presented by the Shadows of Reality.

Co-chairman of the dance are Pat Mangiagli and Joe Bilyou. Decorations are by Bob Witkowski and Mary Beth Kwasnowski.

The chairmen join in inviting all to attend and "do your own thing to end your vacation with a bash."

Hobbit Doings

Understandably happy after the success of the Coffeehouse Day fund drive and subsequent dance at the Municipal Auditorium, the patrons of the Hobbit Coffeehouse will be dancing tonight to the rock music of one of Kingston's newest groups, the Unlimited Emotions.

Because of the fund drive and dance (which together brought the Coffeehouse more than $700), the community-sponsored, non-profit student meeting place has been closed at its usual location in the basement of the Fair Street Reformed Church at 209 Fair Street for the past two weekends. This weekend, the regular schedule resumed. The coffeehouse doors will open every Friday and Saturday night at 7:30, with the featured entertainment starting at 8.

On Saturday nights, there are auditions, from 6 in the evening until 7:30 when the doors open for the featured show. Admission to the auditorium is free. This week's performance by the Unlimited Emotions is part of the attempt by the Hobbit to present many diversified forms of music, and to promote local musical talent.

KHS Sophomores

Monday is back to school day and Tuesday night the sophomore class will stage a fund raising spring fashion show. Proceeds will be used to finance class activities.

Judy Wisner is serving as chairman and Karen Dickerson will be commentator.

Modeling for London's will be Michele Lawless, Marcia Zwilling, Nora Bassett, Alicia Bassett, Kathy Keator, Jeri Ann Roosa, Mary Beth Kwasnowski, Chris Celuch and Laurie Avery.

Modeling for Yallums will be Ken Wisner, Ken Mikes, John Carter, Earl Edmond, Jesse Adams and Dave Scholar.

The show will be staged at the KHS auditorium from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Entertainment Group to Cast For 'Dawn Will Come' Monday

KINGSTON The Teen Entertainment Association has postponed its bus trip to New York City until May. The trip was originally scheduled for today.

At the next meeting of the association Monday 3:45 p. m. at the Kingston YMCA, the cast for the play Dawn Will Come will be chosen.

Officers of the 25 member club devoted to the arts are as follows:

Bill Kelly, president; Bridget

Lang, vice president; Harriet Hults, treasurer; Betty Winkler, secretary and Jim Naccarato, sergeant at arms.

Long range plans call for a fall theater trip to New York City.

Nobody's Listening

He's been singing them for five years now. But nobody's listening. Actually, there isn't too much left to listen to. The years have not been kind to Jerry's once-gravel-voiced style. He's doing c and w now. Carl Perkins, who does a lot of back-up for him, used to be a pretty solid singer himself—he had a song called "Blue Suede Shoes" that really rearranged the charts, back when he was a promising young singer, so was Jerry Lee Lewis . . .

Sometimes, maybe once in a record, Jerry Lee lets the piano take off in the wild trill that was his trademark, and the people who remember how it was, know, that he remembers, too. One of his releases last year was titled "She Still Comes Around to Love What's Left of Me." He was on the Tom Jones Show last month, and he'll be on the Monkees' Special pretty soon. His gaze is still keen and the hair is still long and gold . . .

April is Jerry Lee Lewis month, so love what's left of him. . . .

Arlington Nine Defeats Kingston Baseball Squad, 7-2

THE DUNK—Los Angeles Laker center Wilt Chamberlain dunks one as Atlanta Hawks Zelmo Beatty (1) and Bill Bridges wait for a chance to rebound. The play is part of the first game of the Western Division Playoffs. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By MORT LAFFIN
FREEDOM PLAINS
Kingston Baseball Coach Fritz Jordan's boys Mike Rienzo took his team tallied four markers in the first across the river for a game inning, icing the victory.

Free passes by the pitching staff and errors in the field for two, then singled for the fourth run of the inning.

Falls Short
Kingston started a rally that fell short in the fourth inning. John Carter reached first on an error. Then, with one out, Rick Sorenson reached first on a fielder's choice, both runners ending up at second and third after the shortstop made a wild throw. After Greg Rios reached on a sacrifice, Harry Lyons doubled to right center, driving in two runs. Lyons was out going to third.

The home squad picked up runs in the third, fourth and sixth innings, locking up the decision. Kingston had but two hits as the winners got six. Bruce Fenn and Jim Webber had two hits each for Arlington. Sorenson and Lyons had the only hits for Kingston.

JV Wins
The Junior Varsity game went a little better for the locals as Kingston defeated Arlington, 12-4, on a three-hitter by George Geanulus. Rich Freeze had a three-run homer for the winners.

Bruce Devlin Catches Casper

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer was an aging also-ran, his head down and his game in tatters, trailing such performers as B.R. McLendon, Roberto Bernardini and Taakaiki Kono today as a trimmed-down field set out in pursuit of Billy Casper and Bruce Devlin in the Masters golf tournament.

The once-proud ruler of all he surveyed in the golfing world vowed he's never quit trying, but, in the big ones, it doesn't seem to matter much anymore.

He missed the cut in last year's Masters, hasn't won a major title in five years, hasn't been a factor in a major event since collapsing before Casper in the 1966 U.S. Open, and made the cut for the final two rounds of the Masters this year by just one stroke.

so badly. Right now I don't have the confidence to do much about it, but I'll keep on trying," said the gallery idol who's rapidly closing in on 40, a little on the elderly side for an athlete.

He simply couldn't do anything right in the sweltering heat, taking bogeys on four holes, while two-time U.S. Open champion Casper and Devlin, a reed-slim Australian, were the most successful in a day-long, frustrating struggle with brutal pin placements.

The observations generally were agreed to by a field that fired and fell back, leaving Casper and Devlin with a three-stroke lead over lanky George Archer and veteran Dan Sikes, tied at 140. Sikes had a second-round 71 and Archer a 73.

It was two more strokes back to a group of nine deadlocked at 142—Charles Coody, Dave Stockton, Lionel Hebert, Al Geiberger, Tom Weiskopf, Crampton, Tommy Aaron, Mason Rudolph and Miller Barber.

Big Jack Close
Big Jack Nicklaus still was a factor at 143 after a second-round 75 and Gary Player, the little South African, who, along with Nicklaus and Palmer, once made up the awesome Big Three, was at 144.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino was at 146, one stroke back of PGA king Julius Boros. Defending champion Bob Goalby was at 146 and Roberto de Vicenzo missed the cut at 150.

Mel Counts Does What Counts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "You try to follow the ball coming off the backboard, but there's a little luck in getting that rebound," explained Mel Counts.

With 24 seconds left in the opening game of the Western playoffs of the National Basketball Association, the 7-footer had the luck and the shot and with a 95-93 victory, his Los Angeles Lakers hold a 1-0 edge over Atlanta.

The Lakers trailed 93-92 Friday night when Keith Erickson shot. Counts took the rebound and followed with a field goal while being fouled by Bill Bridges. He then sank the free throw.

Atlanta trailed by 15 points on three occasions, but then rallied late in the third period, aided by some frigid shooting by the Lakers, and had gone ahead in the fourth.

Zelmo Beatty scored 29 for the loser as high scorer in the game and Coach Richie Guerin commented, "we can come back. If Beatty gets his shots on Sunday, it will be different."

On Sunday, New York plays at Boston in an afternoon game with the Celtics leading that series 2-1, while Atlanta plays again in Los Angeles that night in the best four-of-seven set.

With little Johnny Egan pacing the attack with 15 points, the Lakers surged ahead 53-40 at halftime, before 16,190 at the Forum.

Near the end of the third period, the home club went cold and for a total of 6 minutes 53 seconds, extending into the fourth quarter, they didn't score a field goal. By then Atlanta led 82-77.

Counts ended the drought. Then he, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West paced a winning comeback helped by the rebounding of 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain.

It was Chamberlain who rebounded an Atlanta shot in the final seconds to kill off one of the two final Hawk chances. On the second, Paul Silas missed shots, the latter right at the buzzer.

West led Laker scorers with 25 points while Egan had 18, Baylor 16 and Chamberlain 15 in addition to grabbing 29 rebounds.

Walt Hazzard scored 18 for Atlanta and Bridges 14.

No games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association on Friday night.

Joe Torre Trade Works Both Ways

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
A good trade, it has been said, is one which helps both teams. On Friday, at least, the Orlando Cepeda-Joe Torre trade was a very good one for the Atlanta Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cepeda and Torre both hammered home runs, leading Atlanta and St. Louis to victories. The Braves tagged Cincinnati 6-4 and the Cardinals won their first after three losses, nipping New York 6-5.

In other National League games Friday, Chicago shut out Montreal 1-0 in 12 innings, Pittsburgh dropped Philadelphia 7-1, Los Angeles battered Houston 9-3 and San Francisco blanked San Diego 8-0.

Joe Pepitone Stars, Yankees Top Tigers

DETROIT (UPI)—Joe Pepitone's two-run homer —his fourth hit —and a two-run homer by Roy White Friday enabled the New York Yankees to hand the defending World Champion Detroit Tigers their first loss of the season, 9-4.

White's blast off losing pitcher Earl Wilson in the eighth inning snapped a 2-2 tie and Pepitone's shot off Dick Radatz in the ninth capped a four-run rally which sewed up the game.

New York helped its cause with five stolen bases and Detroit chipped in with four errors during the afternoon.

Bobby Murcer scored four times for the Yankees, in front of White's second home run of the year and Pepitone's first. Bill Robinson singled home a run in the eighth while Murcer drove in one in the ninth with a single.

Robertson on NBA 'Team'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oscar Robertson was named for the 10th time to the National Basketball Association All-Star team announced Thursday by Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

The Big O has been a constant repeater, and nothing the Cincinnati ace did in the 1968-69 campaign could keep him off this time.

Baltimore's Westley Unseld and Earl Monroe, Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia, and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles, joined Robertson to force veterans Wilt Chamberlain of the Lakers, Bill Russell of Boston and Jerry Lucas of Cincinnati off the first or second teams for the first time in their NBA careers.

Willis Reed and Dave DeBusschere of New York, John Havlicek of Boston, Hal Greer of Philadelphia and Jerry West of Los Angeles were the second team designees.

The homer was Cepeda's only hit of the game and it was the only one the Braves needed. Torre had an even better time against the Mets.

Sawyers Drop Track Opener

ARLINGTON
Saugerties High Track team traveled to Arlington on a rainy day to open its 1969 cinder season with a 109-2-21 loss.

Rex Kinyr scored the Sawyers' only first place finish when he tied Bob Sawyer in the 880 yard run with a time of 2:16.2.

Saugerties' second place finishes went to Jack Fitzpatrick, in the 440; Jim Gibane, in the two mile; Bill Benham, in the high jump; George Meyer, in the triple jump and Bob Peitter in the long jump.

Other point scorers for the Sawyers were third place finishers, George Praetorius, in the 100 yard dash; Dan Mosher, in the mile run; and Ken Rowe in the high jump.

Arlington swept all three places in the 120, 180, 220, shot put, discus, and pole vault events.

Times were slow due to a wet track. Saugerties is at home against Hudson April 18.

Chando Sparks Lakers

Aero Lake-DeMicco's in Finals Sunday Night

By JIM MASSA

It will be Aero Lake Airport and DeMicco Motors in the Kingston Basketball Tournament Finals Sunday night at 8 p. m. for the championship. Aero Lake Airport defeated a tough Clarkstown team 117-110 and DeMicco Motors edged Fellicello Pipers 97-94.

The fabulous Charlie Brown did his thing last night at the auditorium leading the Lakers with 29 points, and Joe Uhl, the tournament's leading scorer, hit for 26 points.

Although Brown and Uhl were the top scorers, it was Rod Chando, the ex-Marlboro High and Ulster County Community College star, that made the difference as he hit on 9 out of 18 attempts from the field for 18 points, playing only 12 minutes of the contest.

Aero Lake jumped off to a 11-4 lead but the Pipers came back to tie the score at 14-14. At this time Uhl and Brown began to hit and the Lakers pulled out in front, 46-33, but Clarkstown turned the tide and moved within two points at half time trailing, 60-58.

At the outset of the second half Clarkstown hit the first six points to take a 64-60 lead. The contest became a see-saw battle through the next 12 minutes at which time Clarkstown pulled out in front of the Lakers, 99-93. With six minutes remaining Aero Lake called time out and made some kind of adjustment because they came back on the floor to outscore the Recs, 24-11, to wrap up the victory.

Walt Ward, who played for the Lakers last year took game honors with 42 points on 9 field goals and 24 free throws. Walt Cook hit for 37 points for the Recs but it just couldn't offset the well-rounded Laker attack.

DeMicco Motors fell behind at the outset, 13-5, but put the clamps on Fellicello's and went ahead to stay, 24-23. Jerry Moss turned in a well-rounded performance with 29 points game four of the five remaining and Gary Kirkwood, who hit the ing Dodgemmen players had four boards strong throughout the personal fouls.

Third Year in a Row For the third year in a row Aero Lake Airport and DeMicco Motors have been the finalists for the tournament. Each team has won one and this should be a game to follow pattern of their first two contests.

Aero Lake won the first by four points and DeMicco's won last year's 99-98.

Can Joe Uhl, Charlie Brown and company offset the De-

Mico Motor speed with Jerry as both say it's an even con tion for the championship. The Ranich and either Bob Bondar Moss and Gary Kirkwood lead.

There will be only one game will start at 8 p. m. Expected line-ups will be for Derrenbacher, Tony Pough, Joe Uhl, Charlie Gary Kirkwood and Ray Lind-thing more than the coaches, which they are still in conten-

Brown, Leon Hanna, Wayne horst.

TAP IT—That's just what Bob (Bundles) Bondar of the Lakers did while opponents and (3) Leon Hanna look on. Aero Lake won out over Clarkstown 117-110 to reach the finals this Sunday night at the auditorium beginning at 8 p. m. against DeMicco's for the Kingston Basketball Tournament Championship. Sports Schedule in Swing

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON

After a slightly abbreviated start last week, the local sports scene gets into full swing, starting Monday.

Many of the area high school and college teams, in all sports, open their seasons, as well as many non-scholastic squads. Little League, softball, slow and fast pitch, and other baseball teams are scheduling tryouts and workouts.

Of course, warm weather means golf, and many of the wives that were football, basketball and hockey widows during the winter, shudder at the sight of the putter, water glass and five or six balls strewn on the living room carpet.

Area driving ranges have been getting some play, depending on the day to day weather conditions. Also some of the courses have opened and others will be trying to get the greens in shape for next weekend.

Other games on the high school level are Red Hook at

Twaalfskill Club, will have boro, in an interesting meeting opened today on the regular greens. Wiltwyck opened last Saturday, closed Sunday and re-opened Wednesday, going with the weather. About thirty golfers were on the course yesterday and many more, weather permitting, will be in attendance this weekend.

Scholastic baseball gets into full swing starting on Monday, when Roosevelt of the Dutchess County Scholastic League, Central Section, invades Dietz Stadium to take on the Maroons of Kingston.

The surge continues Tuesday as Orange County Community College hosts Ulster County Community College's fine baseball squad. Al DiBernardo's nine has played three tough tilts, opening their schedule, and this game should be no exception.

Other games on the high school level are Red Hook at

Saugerties, Ontario at Marl-

Ontario and Lourdes at Kingston. Ellenville will be at Mid-deltown for a golf match. The baseball scene finds Sullivan County Community College at UCCC, Ontario at Red Hook and Cornwall at Marlboro.

Triangular Meet College track comes into the picture Friday, when New Paltz State competes in a triangular meet at Randall's Island in New York City.

Queens and Iona will be the other two schools participating. The Hawks also send their golf team to Quinipiac for a meet.

Three baseball games are also scheduled for Friday. Marlboro goes to New Paltz. Wallkill is at Ontario and Rondout buses to Highland.

Saturday, UCCC goes to Queensboro for a baseball game and Beacon visits Saugerties for a high school tilt. New Paltz State winds up at triangular track meet in the

Rosendale, Esopus Republicans Select Legislature Candidates

ESOPUS

Seventh District Republicans from the Towns of Rosendale and Esopus recently chose three candidates for county legislature who were later endorsed at the unofficial county convention.

Only one is an incumbent—E. Stirling Potter of Port Ewen, who seeks another two-year term.

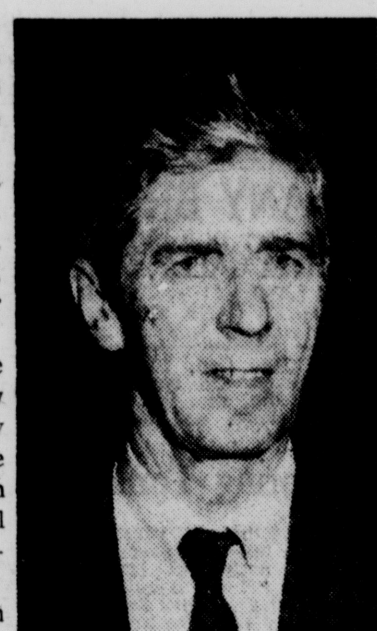

The two men seeking the other posts, one of which is now held by the Democratic minority leader, Roger Mabie, are office holders in their respective town governments. They are Sol Rosenthal and Glenn Debrodsky.

Rosenthal, 48, a councilman in the Town of Esopus for 12 years, was born on the Ulster Park farm on which he still resides.

Married and the father of three daughters, he also has a grandson who represents the fifth generation on the same farm.

Rosenthal attended the College of the City of New York and received an associate degree in agricultural engineering from the State University at Farmingdale.

He is past president of the Ulster and Sullivan Purchasing and Marketing Cooperative Association, past president of the Motel Association of New York, past president of the Town of Esopus Republican Club.

E. STIRLING POTTER

SOL ROSENTHAL

GLENN DEBRODSKY

Active in the field of education, having served his district as chairman of the board of trustees for more than 10 years, he was co-chairman of the original Kingston Area Committee for Education.

He is also a member of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Ulster Grange 969, Union Center Civic Group and Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Rosenthal is the owner and operator of the Vineyard Lodge and Friendly Acres Motel in Ulster Park.

Rosendale Councilman Debrodsky, 34, a resident of High Falls, is also a councilman for the Town of Rosendale. An associate programmer for IBM with whom he has been associated for the past 15 years, he is a graduate of St. Peter's School, Rosendale and Kingston High School. He also attended Marist College.

Elected councilman by a large majority, Debrodsky was also elected deputy supervisor by both political parties. He is town chairman of the following committees: constabulary, planning board, recreation and junk cars.

He is also a member of the following town committees: town buildings, dump, equipment. Debrodsky is credited with organizing and becoming an original member of the town planning board.

Republican committeeman for the past eight years he was town GOP chairman in recent campaigns and served as co-chairman of the local cancer drive.

Potter, the incumbent, is a graduate of Syracuse University where he majored in business administration. He is a district salesman for the Sherwin Williams Paint Company.

A councilman for the Town of Esopus for more than 10 years, he has been active in community affairs and holds membership in the Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion and in the Lions Club of Port Ewen.

29 Vote Loser

Potter once served as deputy supervisor of the Town of Esopus having been appointed in 1957 by Supervisor Edward R. Eckert.

He has faced the Democrat Mabie at the polls once before, losing by a very small margin of 29 votes in 1957 in what was considered a sharp upset.

The third seat up for election this November in addition to Potter's and Mabie's is that of Republican Irving P. Maurer who declined to seek another term. The Democrats, who will reconvene their unofficial convention next week are expected to name three candidates, including Mabie, to face Potter, Rosenthal and Debrodsky.

Dear Abby

Kissing Display Irks

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Libby, my 17-year-old niece, brought her boyfriend to the grandparents' for Sunday supper. She didn't ASK if she could bring him. She just brought him.

After supper, Libby and her boyfriend picked a comfortable chair in the corner. He sat down, and she sat on top of him, and they spent the entire evening that way. She couldn't keep her hands off him. He didn't say a word. He just grinned and whispered something to Libby once in a while. It's a wonder he didn't grab her and head for the nearest bedroom. It was disgusting.

After everyone left, Grandpa was all shook up to think that his lovely young granddaughter would throw herself at a boy that was "Just asking for trouble," he says. And Grandpa was in tears. All the while Libby's parents were sitting across the room like two stuffed sparrows on a limb.

My husband says I should mind my own business — that Libby has parents to tell her how to act. Should I say something to those stupid parents? Or should I say something to Libby? Or better yet, can YOU say something?

DEAR AUNTIE: A 17-year-old who would behave this way in the presence of her parents either doesn't know any better, or doesn't care what anyone thinks. And parents who would sit in silence during such a performance are either helpless or gutless. If you think it will help Libby, tell her the facts of life. But hurry!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old girl who is still single. Sure, I wish I were married, but things haven't worked out that way.

Whenever I visit my married friends, it's always the same old story. They can't understand why a nice girl who is pretty, has a good figure and pleasant personality isn't married. They keep insisting I am too "fussy."

This really hurts me and makes me wonder if maybe I shouldn't marry the first man who comes along no matter what he's like or how I feel about him.

I've dated quite a few men. Some fell in love with someone else and others I never seemed to care enough for.

Perhaps if you print this, some of my friends will read it and realize how much they can hurt a girl without meaning to.

STILL SINGLE

DEAR STILL: And to those friends who hurt without meaning to, may I suggest that if you really want to be helpful, keep your eyes open for an eligible man who may fill the bill. The best way for a nice girl to meet a nice man is thru mutual friends.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I lost my companion of 35 years. I have two wonderful sons and a daughter whom I love deeply. They all thought the world of their father, so after he passed away, I had his most recent picture enlarged and framed. One for each of the children. This picture was admired by everyone. My husband looked so well and happy. Well! Guess where my daughter put the picture? On top of the water tank in the laundry. What do you think of that, Abby? Every time I visit her and look up at my dear husband on top of that water tank my heart is broken all over again.

Maybe I shouldn't feel that way, but I just can't help it. Should I tell her?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Yes, I'm sure she can find a more appropriate place for such a lovely picture.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is sort of a minor executive with a large company which employs mostly girls and women. He has a part in interviewing them for employment, which brings him into close contact with lots of girls.

He is always telling me how girls try to sit close to him and make dates with him and all like that. I'm not the jealous type. At least I never was before he started all this talk. What do you think is going on that makes him tell me these things?

MAYBELLE

DEAR MAYBELLE: Nothing, probably.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Proper Contract Difficult to Bid

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand might well cause our modern experts trouble. No one has worked out a truly scientific method of handling a nine-card suit headed by the ace-10.

The bidding in the box took place back in 1930. North and South were two of the greatest players of that day and the bidding in the box shows how they arrived at seven spades. East had no problem with his opening lead. He placed the ace of clubs on the table and North was down one.

Quick Quiz

Q — What does the oak leaf symbolize?
A — Oak leaves stand for strength, glory and honor. The Romans decorated their war heroes with crowns of oak leaves.

Q — What meridian does the International Date Line follow?
A — The line runs down the middle of the Pacific Ocean. It follows the 180th meridian most of the way, but zigzags in several places to avoid having two different calendar days on the same day in a country.

Mideast Pot Boils in Wake of Peace Bid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab and Israeli forces clashed on the Jordanian front today as Egypt denied there was anything new in King Hussein's six-point Middle East peace plan.

An Israeli army spokesman said Israeli troops clashed with Jordanian regulars south of the Sea of Galilee after an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli patrol. He said the guerrillas opened fire on the patrol with bazookas at 6:30 a.m., and the Jordanian regulars joined in with a mortar barrage lasting 2½ hours.

The spokesman said the Israeli forces returned the fire without suffering any casualties.

A Jordanian spokesman said the Israelis began shelling South Menshia village at 5:45 a.m., stopped briefly and then resumed again at 6:45 a.m. He said the Jordanians suffered no losses, but claimed five Israeli soldiers were hit by Jordanian gunners.

2-Day Fire Fight

Today's clash followed artillery duels Friday across the Jordan River and the Suez Canal.

A communique from Cairo said the Israelis started firing across the Suez Canal in the fourth battle there in eight days, and a Jordanian communique said the Israelis shelled Jordanian troops from positions on the occupied West Bank.

Both communiques said the Arabs suffered no casualties. There was no immediate word on the two battles from Israeli headquarters in Tel Aviv.

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahran, which usually reflects the thinking of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said today the peace plan outlined Thursday by King Hussein of Jordan did not represent a shift from the previous Arab position on terms for a settlement.

Washington had viewed as a new development Hussein's statement Thursday that one point in his peace plan would give Israel full navigation rights in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. The Jordanian monarch had said he was speaking for President Gamal Abdel Nasser as well as himself.

Al Ahran said any settlement with Israel according to the provisions of the U.N. Security Council resolution of November 1967 must be divided into two parts.

Want Pre-War Status

"Firstly liquidation of the consequences of the June 1967 battles through withdrawal and implementation of the first paragraphs of the security council resolution.

"Secondly the rights of the Palestinian people and the solution to the refugee problem according to past U.N. resolutions. President Nasser has asserted more than once that Israeli navigation in the canal is tied to the rights of the Palestinian people and not connected in any way with the 1967 war."

Syria and Iraq did not comment on Hussein's statement. Lebanon appeared to support Hussein's stand. Foreign Minister Youssef Salem said in Beirut: "We accept the plan on this basis, particularly as King Hussein has put it forward on his own behalf and on behalf of President Nasser."

Amman Radio, backed up Al Ahran's contention that Hussein's six points were "a reflection of the stand which Egypt has already declared publicly."

But Al Fatah, the largest of the Arab guerrilla organizations, broadcast a commentary critical of both Hussein and Nasser. Fatah's radio said: "Arab officials must tell the masses the whole truth. The masses can no longer accept that such statements were made for external consumption."

Soviets Want to Negotiate Border Dispute With China

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today offered to start negotiations with Red China in Moscow next Tuesday "or at any other date convenient for the Chinese" in an effort to end their bitter border dispute which has claimed casualties on both sides.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry handed the Red Chinese Embassy in Moscow a diplomatic note proposing the talks late Friday. The document was reported to be brief—less than 300 words—specific, and businesslike.

The transmission of the note was reported today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Calls For Talks

It called for resumption of the Moscow-Peking talks which opened in 1964 in the Chinese capital. Negotiators were scheduled to switch the consultations to Moscow later that year, but the Chinese never showed up.

Tass said the Soviet note to the Chinese said the talks were to resume in Moscow on Oct. 15, 1964. "However they were not continued either at this date or later and this was not the fault of the Soviet Union," the note said according to Tass.

The latest Soviet note was a follow-through on a 2,000-word statement to the Chinese issued on March 29 which said "The Soviet government states and considers it necessary to reiterate that it absolutely rejects any encroachment by anyone on Soviet lands, and any attempts to talk to the Soviet Union in the language of weapons will meet with firm rebuff."

The March note placed all blame on Red China for the battles on March 2 and March 14-15 on the ice around Damansky Island on the Ussuri River frontier. It repeated that Damansky was and will remain Soviet territory.

Chinese Claim Island

The Chinese claim Damansky Island is theirs.

Recent Soviet news reports indicate that there still is considerable tension in the area, including some exchange of firing between Red Chinese and Russian troops.

There was no indication whether the Chinese had accepted or rejected the March note. Friday's follow-up was considered an effort to shake loose a reply, and dealt in specifics of a proposed meeting rather than in generalities, diplomatic sources said.

While the tone of both notes was relatively mild compared to fierce accusations in the past, particularly after the Damansky Island clashes, most diplomatic observers here considered their purpose was mainly propaganda.

These observers felt that by demonstrating a reasoned approach to the Chinese, the Soviet Union was stressing its position before the foreign Communist parties it hopes will attend the World Communist conference proposed for June 5.

Diplomatic sources felt the Soviets could hardly expect the Chinese who are deep in the fighting of their party congress, to be prepared for major diplomatic negotiations in a distant capital within four days.

Bring RFK Status Into Sirhan Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Shrewd Grant Cooper took one last swipe at the prosecution demand for a verdict of first degree murder in the trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan.

His voice rising and his arms waving, the chief defense attorney turned to the jury and said:

"Suppose the victim had not been Robert F. Kennedy but someone named John Smith or Jose Gonzales or George Washington Brown, just someone in a crowd.

"I suggest that with the psychiatric testimony you have heard that you wouldn't take two minutes to return a verdict of second degree murder on the grounds of diminished capacity. Forget this was a United States senator and do your duty as you said you would."

Scorching Answer

Burly Lynn Compton, a former Rose Bowl star and World War II paratrooper, had a scorching answer as the chief prosecuting attorney. He talked quietly to the jury.

"I want you to ask yourself this question," he said.

"Did Robert Francis Kennedy, a young man at the peak of his career, a former attorney general, a senator from New York, did he breathe his last breath on the floor of that pantry with the maps and dirty dishes, did he leave a widow and 11 children, because he favored United States' support of the state of Israel or because he was a substitute father image in some Oedipus complex in Sirhan's mind?"

"If you believe psychiatrist

Dr. Bernard Diamond with his mirror act and the defendant in some sort of hypnotic trance where he didn't know whether he was afoot or on horseback, then he shouldn't be punished at all because he didn't know what he was doing.

"If you believe those experts then he should go free. But I don't buy them and I don't think you will. Then there is nothing left but a plain old cold-blooded first degree murder."

Sits Silently

Sirhan, so pale his face seemed to be turning some weird shade of green, sat silently and motionless as the attorneys fought over a verdict which could mean either a sentence of death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

Compton will wind up for the state Monday and then the three-month case will go to the jury after the judge's instructions.

If there is a verdict of first degree murder, the jury will hear a "second trial" to determine penalty.

Cooper told the jury that Sirhan would rather get first degree murder as the verdict. "Then he can be a hero to the Arab world as he wants to be," Cooper said.

Ronald Evans, the juror occupying seat No. 1, was excused Friday after it was learned his brother had died. His successor will be chosen from among five remaining alternate jurors. The alternates have attended all court sessions and heard all the testimony.

Nixon Sees $6 Billion Surplus; Main Cuts in Welfare, Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration reportedly now expects a surplus approaching $6 billion in a fiscal 1970 budget showing the biggest cutbacks in welfare and defense.

The projected surplus is the result of what one administration source called "a second trip through the wringer" for the record $195.3 billion budget President Nixon inherited from Lyndon Johnson.

Nixon ordered an agency-by-agency review of the Johnson budget, which had forecast a $3.5 billion surplus, as soon as he took office last January. But when it was completed it showed a net increase in outlays —instead of a decrease—so Nixon sent it back for another look.

Announcement of the $5.5 billion to $6 billion surplus today is expected to be followed up with a bundle of revised agency-by-agency requests next week when Congress reconvenes after its Easter recess.

The bulk of the more than $2 billion in spending cuts came out of the budgets for Defense and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird already has disclosed a $1.1 billion cutback. The Pentagon is seeking $900 million less than was in the Johnson budget for the antiballistic missile system.

A cutback of $1.1 billion reportedly is in store for H.E.W. This would be about 2 per cent of the department's overall budget, but actually would amount to a much larger proportionate share.

About $18 billion of the H.E.W. budget is for uncontrollable expenses such as Social Security, Medicare and public assistance which are safe from budget cutters.

Besides defense and welfare, fairly severe cuts have been rumored for space, agriculture and highways.

Mass Evacuations In Midwest Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flooding caused mounting damage—over $3 million in one area—and extreme hardship today for persons in five states.

Meanwhile, communities along the Mississippi River braced for the larger water runoff expected from tributaries currently swamping their hinterlands and forcing over 3,000 persons from their homes.

The U.S. Geological Survey said some rivers are carrying 2½ times more water than during the worst floods ever recorded in the Midwest.

States hit hardest by the heavy snow melt near the Canadian border are Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and, to a lesser degree, Wisconsin.

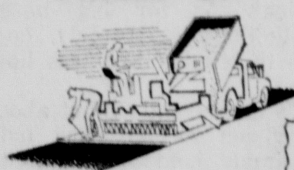

Rampaging waters from the Souris River in north-central North Dakota crashed through earthen dikes at Minot and sent 2,000 persons fleeing from their homes. County officials estimated damage for the town of 33,000 at $3.25 million.

The Red River, swirling down from Canada on the North Dakota and Minnesota border, forced evacuation of 25 families at Enderlin, N. D. At Wahpeton, N.D., the river was six feet above flood stage with a crest expected later today one foot higher than the previous record high set in 1897.

At Fargo, N.D., the Red River was 11 feet above flood stage and at Jamestown, N.D., the rising James River pushed through a dike and forced the evacuation of 75 persons from a housing development for elderly persons.

The Big Sioux River crested and began receding Friday at Sioux Falls, S.D., Sioux City, Iowa, and North Sioux City, S.D., whose 800 residents kept away from their submerged homes unprotected by dikes.

Paltz Players Take Honors at Festival

The New Paltz Players of State University College, New Paltz, took top honors for the best full length production with their performance of Moliere's "The Miser" at the ninth annual Festival of the New York State Theater Association held at Corning recently.

Suan Silversmith, president of the New Paltz theatre group, accepted the award. Miss Silversmith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Silversmith, 3856 Bronx Boulevard, New York, N. Y.

Other honors to New Paltz students included a certificate of merit to Gene Minkow, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Minkow, 2710 Morris Avenue, New York, N. Y., for his acting in the comic role of Master Jacques in the New Paltz production.

Nominated for best performance in a leading role were Lew Arlt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Arlt, 22 Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock, N. Y.; Richard Casselman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Casselman, 108 Argonne Drive, Kenmore, N. Y.; and Barbara Hyslop, daughter of William Hyslop, 15 Alliance Street, Valley Stream, N. Y.. Kevin Barkhausen, son of Mrs. Marion Barkhausen, 52-13 Haspel Street, Elmhurst, N. Y. was also nominated for best performance in a leading role.

James Dean, who judged the Festival events, is president of the Canadian Guild of Adjudicators.

Dr. Scott, of New Paltz, president of the Theatre Association this year, said the Festival brings community and university theatre together in a shared purpose of doing good plays well, and exposes the students' and director's work to public discussion by a trained critic.

The New Paltz Players had also won the same award in 1965 for its presentation of Eugene O'Neill's, "The Hairy Ape," which also was selected for an award for creative use of sound effects. In 1967, Sophocles' Antigone received an award for costume design and for work of the Greek Chorus. Both of those previous productions were also directed by Dr. Scott, who came to the college in 1964. (For the behind-the-scenes story of "The Miser," see the feature article on the right.)

Burr Poems

'Drenched With Light'

The fourth book this year poems that "the special pleasure" of reading them is that "while clear and cool, they are also graphic and humane—in his own phrase, 'sharp and drenched with light.' Starting from the simplicities of every day, each of them leads into some new sphere of quickening speculation."

Wesleyan Press says there is about Burr's poems "a wry irony as well as melodic affirmation, and a charm of expression that is rare indeed today." The book has been published in both hard cover and paper back.

The poet came to New Paltz in 1962. He holds the R.A. and M. A. from Harvard University and last year was awarded a faculty research fellowship by the State University of New York. His work has been published in numerous magazines over the years. He and Mrs. Burr live at 525 Guilford Road, New Paltz.

NEW PALTZ POET GRAY BURR

WORKING ON THE ARCHES FOR "THE MISER"

Like a Clock's Insides

All the world may be a stage, but for the crew behind the scenes at New Paltz State University College's most recent production, one set of players at a time was more than enough.

Sixteen actors "had their exits and their entrances" in the Paltz Players' production of Moliere's "The Miser," which came up a top winner at the recent statewide Theatre Festival. The actors, of course, had THEIR hour upon the stage—and that what they did and said was seen and heard with acclaim is obvious by the prizes they took.

The 50 people who supported them, however, in first productions at Paltz's McKenna Theater and later at Corning, N. Y., for the festival, were never heard at all. But their contribution was great.

When an audience views a theatrical production, little thought (if any) is given to the activity behind the scenes. The people who design and build the sets, who collect props, handle costumes, apply make-up, work the lighting and sound systems or perform any of the hundreds of tiny tasks necessary to a successful performance receive notice only when something goes wrong.

Necessary but Unseen

Yet the worth of their performance is based upon the actor's ability. If the acting is bad, then the play is bad, no matter how technically perfect the set may have been. And if the acting is good, the backstage work becomes like the insides of a clock—necessary but unseen.

John Sloat is an instructor in the college Theater Department at Paltz. Technical director for the Players, he had the responsibility of designing the set for this production, which he did from a 17th century floor plan. "It was a light set," he said, consisting of a bench, two stools, a couple of candleabras, a chair, a table and three rather large arches.

"The arches were the hard part," Sloat admitted, "although nothing was particularly difficult for this production." (When the Players did the musical "Anything Goes" last year, the set required a swimming pool on stage, which Sloat found himself sitting in after the last performance, following a scene reminiscent of the Kennedy family's heyday in Washington.

Back Door Problem

"Actually, the biggest problem with the arches was trying to figure out how to get them out of the back door when we took the show on the road—that and the toilet paper."

The arches, as well as the furniture were all built in the college's workshop and coated with a toilet paped based mache applique ("enough toilet paper to supply Disneyland") to reflect the lavish interior of a 17th century French town house.

The fact that the play's original production date was about 1680 may not have caused too many problems for Sloat and the crew that built the set, but for Michelle Yulles, a junior English major who had to find the props to go with it, life was not all that easy.

"I must have called every church in the Hudson Valley," she said, "trying to locate a couple of candlesnuffers." The candlesnuffers, which were used only once, at the intermission break, had to be long enough to reach the six-foot candleabras. "We finally got one from the Catholic Church and one from the Episcopal Church here in New Paltz."

Improvised Money

The Miser's money was the biggest hangup from the standpoint of props. "He's supposed to have 10,000 crowns," she said, "but gold coins aren't that easy to come by. We tried checkers, but they didn't sound right so we got some steel washers and painted them gold."

As a result, each "coin" had a hole in the middle, but no one could really tell because he held them with his hands together.

Makeup was another area in which innovations were necessary, said the senior theater arts major Janet Jones. She had originally tried to age the miser, sophomore Kevin Barkhausen, with latex and tissue, "but when we took it off we found it made his skin break out."

Building a moustache (out of speargum and crepe paper) is no picnic either, she said. "And then you always have to worry whether or not it's going to stay on."

Alteration Woes

Because of the complexities of 17th century clothing, costumes for the major characters were rented from a firm in New York City. "But," said Lorelei Illg, a junior Art Education major, "we still had to measure everybody and then alter the costumes so they would fit just right."

The costumes had to be cleaned, too, and Lorelei's face turned slightly red when she took the white stockings out of the washing machine and found they had turned a shade of pale blue.

"I guess somebody had used the washing machine before me," she said, "but it turned out for the best anyway. The white was too stark, and the touch of blue made the stickings just right under the lights."

Even the ushers had their problems for this particular play, because the cast made its entrance and exit through the audience, but "the eyes of men, after a well-graced actor leaves the stage, are idly bent on him that enters next," mayhap "thinking his prattle to be tedious," but giving no pause to those who also serve.

'La Mancha' Vivid and Spontaneous

THAT PRIZE-WINNING MUSICAL, "The Man of La Mancha," is coming to the stage of the Community Theatre here in Kingston on Monday, April 14. It brings to life such legendary Cervantes characters as Don Quixote, the man of dreams; Sancho, his faithful servant, and Aldonza, the trollop who is turned into a lady by Don Quixote. Scenes from the big hit (from top left clockwise) include: Robert Rayow showing Patricia Marand who's boss; David Atkinson confronting Ian Sullivan in a tense scene; Atkinson as Quixote, threatening Mark Ross, as Louis Criscuolo looks on in one of the more hilarious moments; Dorothy Lancaster as the innkeeper's wife in another dramatic moment laced with comedy; and Seymour Penzner, Louis Criscuolo, and Patricia Marand attending the strangest 'knighting' in the theatre—that of David Atkinson as Don Quixote. 'La Mancha' has been hailed as brilliant, inspiring, the greatest musical play of the decade, and a classic of theatre that will live long after we are gone.

Something Different in Poets

Peter Kane Dufault, once a Congressional candidate here, will present a program of poetry readings tomorrow (Sunday, April 13) at 8 p.m. at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock. Proceeds from the program will benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society Sustaining Fund of the Ulster County Council.

Dufault, a native of Newark, N. J., grew up in Westchester County, N. Y. A graduate of Harvard's Class of 1947, he was active in various athletics and was a Golden Gloves boxer while on campus.

He began writing verse during his high school years; has been publishing regularly since shortly after leaving Harvard. His work has seen wide distribution in the New Yorker, Atlantic, Harper's Saturday Review, and other magazines and anthologies. He is also the author of three books of verse: Angel of Accidence, For Some Stringed Instrument, and a Westchester Farewell and Other Poems.

Man of Many Talents

A quester and seeker, Dufault has labored at many occupations. He has been a house-painter, pots and pans salesman, laborer, folk singer, Louis Harris pollster, tree surgeon, actor and journalist, and is former editor of a Catskill daily newspaper. Currently, he teaches creative writing and coaches soccer and fencing at Barlow School in Amenia; also teaches poetry at Williams College at the same time. In the past he has taught in the Office of Economic Opportunity's Upward Bound program at Marist College.

Millions heard Dufault's voice when he narrated a section of the award-winning CBS-TV documentary, "The Forgotten River," dealing with the decline of the Hudson. And millions saw him when he was chosen as the subject of a half-hour TV documentary, "A Look the Other Way," about his poetry and way of life.

This Dufault documentary film won a top prize at the Golden Gate International Film Festival in San Francisco; and has been seen on CBS-TV and in schools and colleges throughout the country.

Appeared at Colleges

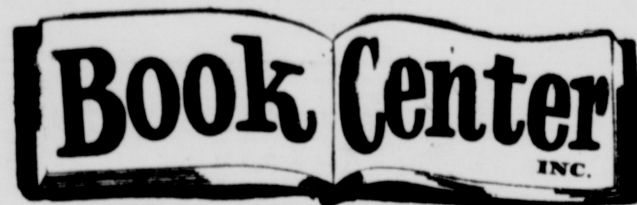

Dufault has given poetry readings of his works at such colleges as Williams, Smith, Vassar, Bard, Dutchess Community, Ulster County Community, and the State University at New Paltz. He has also appeared at Kingston High School.

Just last fall he read with the grand dame of American poetry, Marianne Moore, at the famed Poetry Center, YM-YWHA, Lexington Avenue, New York City, a program made possible with partial support from the New York State Council on the Arts in cooperation with the Poetry Center.

Tickets for the Sunday night reading in Woodstock may be obtained by calling 338-6500 or 679-8225.

Early Cantata for Solo Voice

One of the highlights of the year at Kingston's Old Dutch Church will take place this Sunday at 11 a.m. worship services when Miss Karen Ranung, soprano, will present two early and rarely heard works of sacred music. Culled from the private library of Yves Tinayre, the works were researched and edited by him. They are "Kirchen Kantate No. 4: 'Die Englein'" by Johann Kriedel and "Gloria Patri et Filio" by Giovanni-Battista Pergolesi.

The first work is a cantata composed for solo voice, two violins, and organ bass. Its composer, Johann Kriedel, was an organist in Rumberg and left but one small trace of his printed opus which contains his six cantatas, one of which is "Kirchen Kantate No. 4." listeners have marveled at the long "decrecendo" which runs through the work, as though the first aria was sung on earth, the second in mid-air, and the third far off in heaven. In Pergolesi's "Gloria Patri et Filio," soloist Ranung will be called upon to invoke the Holy Trinity in this work by one of the greatest masters of the Neapolitan School.

Accompanying the guest recitalist will be three Senior students from Vassar College, violinists Jan Wong and Heidi Rendall, and cellist Jean Brenner, as well as Keith Rhodes, organist from the Peabody Conservatory. Rhodes, a young conductor-musician now working on a degree at Peabody and serving as assistant conductor of the symphony orchestra there, will also play for the entire 11 a.m. service, in addition to accompanying Miss Ranung.

As a recitalist, Miss Ranung has sung in oratorio and opera performances, with chamber ensembles, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, and in concert in Manhattan's Town Hall. The New York Times critic said of her Town Hall appearance — "An imaginative recital of songs that offered listening pleasure from start to finish." He called her voice "clear, well produced and appealing," and praised "the thoroughness of her particular artistry."

Grant Avenue: That's Where The Action Is

If someone should ask you for directions on how to get to Grant Avenue, there's an obvious answer these days. Just tell him his best bet is to seek out the Rondout Valley High School's stage.

Of course, composer Richard Rodgers and lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II had no intention of locating the colorful street here in Ulster County, so far from its San Francisco origins. But that's where the action is these spring weeks as

Rondout High's teachers rehearse for their May production of "Flower Drum Song."

This is the time of the year when the dormant dramatic flair of the RVHS staff begins to activate itself in an annual effort. In order to raise money for the Rondout Valley Teachers' Association Scholarship Fund, classroom heads become members of a play cast; begin emoting in front of mirrors, other thespians, and individual families and pets.

At the moment, the primary aim of faculty actors and actresses is to learn lines, melody and rhythm. But those hours now being diligently spent at rehearsing will repay audiences, performers and future teachers (the recipients of the scholarships) in a few weeks when "Flower Drum Song" becomes a stage reality. Dates for the colorful musical are May 15, 16 and 17, so get your tickets early.

Leading Artist R. Motherwell To Visit Bard

Robert Motherwell, one of the leading figures in modern American art, will give a slide illustrated lecture on his own work on April 16 at Bard College. One of the most famous of all abstract expressionists, Motherwell was the subject of a very large retrospective show at the Museum of Modern Art in 1966.

His work in college in the 40's and 60's has interested many critics and viewers. Interesting, too, have been his many writings, including essays on Miro and David Smith. His work is included in the collections of virtually every American museum, and he is the husband of the artist Helen Frankenthaler whose show at the Whitney Museum opened last month.

Motherwell's John Bard Lecture is open to the public and will be given next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Sottery Hall on the campus at Annandale-on-Hudson.

Another lecture at Bard, this one student sponsored, draws on a member of the Bard faculty. On April 15 in Procter Hall at 8:30 p.m., Justus Rosenberg, Professor of Foreign Languages and Literature, will speak on the topic, "Orthodox Marxism and the New Left." Part of the college's Faculty Series of lectures for the spring semester, it is being sponsored by the Bard Student Association.

WHEN HUGH LOFTING drew this illustration for his first Dr. Dolittle book back in 1924, his hero was a "round, funny little man." But in the movie version of "DR. DOLITTLE" now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre, this friend to the animals emerges as tall, skinny and not so whimsical in the person of actor Rex Harrison.

MOVIES

Faces

So much praise has been heaped on John Cassavetes' "Faces" that it seems superfluous on our part to add anything more.

We think Cassavetes has gone far beyond anything any other American director has attempted in many, many years. In spite of possible failure at the box office, he literally dared to produce a film of great and courageous proportions.

Using small part, minor and little known movie players, except for his wife, Gena Rowlands — he gifts us with the best movie ever done on the emptiness that can result from the marriage of two people.

Acclaim and Prizes

Major critics across the country have showered the film with acclaim, and the prizes are still rolling in. Even so, there are some moviegoers who have not liked it and others who will not like it. Friends we honestly thought would consider it a work of genius, and would agree with us that it was a glowing production, have knocked it unmercifully. Perhaps this is because they do not quite understand the nature of what Cassavetes has done.

He seems to have left any imperfections that occurred in filming as they are in order to further emphasize his sincerity. With a low budget and no big name stars, he has produced an honest and highly personal film. He shows us the empty ones, men and women of making something of nothing.

So perceptive, so full of insight is "Faces" that it is, to us, the finest experiment on film in several decades. If infidelity plays an important part in the film, it must be considered secondary to the main subject — the banal, tired and searching existence too many of us live at this point in time.

Those of you who see it will, of course, judge for yourselves. As for us, we left the Mayfair Theatre here where "Faces" is now playing with a taste of ashes in our mouth, but with the feeling that we had seen actors "behaving" as people — not playing as actors.

Doctor Dolittle

This film excursion takes us

THE DEVIL'S BRIGADE, starring William Holden, Cliff Robertson and Vince Edwards, is one of two attractions currently featured on the double bill at Kingston's Sunset Drive-In. The war film shares the screen with "The Night They Raided Minsky's."

into the fantasy world of Doctor Dolittle, who speaks 498 languages, and prefers his four-footed patients to the human kind.

Dolittle, of course, is that tried and true old friend of more than one generation of children, who busily cares for fur, fin and claw. The doctor (for those who do not know — and we doubt there could be any such) is a Victorian physician who communicates better with animals than with people. His office in Puddleby-on-the-Marsh throngs with patients that range from cows and pigs to birds and goldfish. His fame spreads as he learns to speak almost 500 animal languages, including all the fish dialects.

In this movie version, he finances a search for the Great Pink Sea Snail by exhibiting his rare two-headed llama, the pushmipullyu, in a circus. Money in hand, he embarks on his expedition on a chancey, flowerbedecked vessel, the Flounder. The crew includes Dr. D. and his parrot Polynesia, an amazing linguist, and three human friends: a carefree Irishman, a small boy, and a pretty stowaway.

In Henry's Paintings

The Trains & Boats Of Other Centuries

With the pressures of progress, many of us tend to forget the details of our colorful heritage until a good part of it is lost forever. Those of us who live in New York State, however, are fortunate in having the works of Edward L. Henry.

Henry was a 19th century painter who carefully recorded the contemporary objects and dress of his time down to the last detail. Transportation vehicles of his era also captured his imagination. Many of his works literally reproduce scenes bursting with color and — out of the past — come brightly dressed people surrounding a stagecoach or train.

Probably the most familiar of these is his famous painting of the first trip of the "DeWitt Clinton," showing an enthusiastic crowd at one of the stops made by that fabled train. Henry also strove for authentic backgrounds in his works — giving us meticulous renderings of period buildings.

Preferred People

He was not one of the Hudson River school of artists who preferred misty landscapes to people — even though he loved the countryside around Cragmoor where he made his home. He preferred to paint elegant gentry and rural scenes with faithful realism, and these paintings were immediately accepted and appreciated by the public. His work continued to maintain its popularity after Henry developed an interest in historic events. Intensely concerned with accuracy, as always, he would spend months in research before beginning work on a canvas of history and heritage. Among his finest recreations were the surrender of New York to the English by Peter Stuyvesant and a voyage of Robert Fulton's steamboat, "The Clermont."

Edward Henry can be said to have bequeathed us 18th century milestones as well as 19th century life. Many of his works are now the property of the New York State Museum in Albany. It's well worth a trip there to study the scenes of E. L. Henry, a painter this state should be proud to call its own, and an artist who left us an authentic glimpse into the past.

Photography Show

A display of photographs by students in an Orange County Community College continuing education class in creative photography is now on view in the college's Harriman Gallery. The show will continue through April 25.

Twenty-three black and white pictures — photographed, developed and printed by the students themselves — include studies of people, form, textures, patterns, and light and shadows. The work shows esthetic beauty developed within the bounds of the teaching situation.

Instructor of the course is John Looi of Middletown.

The Harriman Gallery at OCCC in Middletown is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.

No Downgrading of His Stature

GRANT TAKES COMMAND.
 By Bruce Catton. Little, Brown, $10.

In this third volume of biography of U.S. Grant, a work ably begun by the late Lloyd Lewis and ably carried forward by Bruce Catton, the unpretentious commander of federal armies in the Civil War emerges in full stature. Here, in the months from Vicksburg to Appomattox, was Grant at his best, pursuing relentlessly the victory which had eluded so many other generals.

He was not impressive in appearance or behavior. He had neither the dash of George B. McClellan nor the dignity of Robert E. Lee, neither the ambitions of Joe Hooker nor the flamboyance of Jeb Stuart. In a crowd, he seemed to sink from sight; correspondent Richard Henry Dana Jr. described him as a "scrubby looking man with a slightly seedy look, as if he was out of office on half pay." But he also had honesty, tenacity, a singleness of purpose, a talent for simple, direct thinking and action. George G. Meade who, as commander of the Army of the Potomac, was associated with Grant through the critical months of 1863-64, acknowledged that he was not "a mighty genius" but still pronounced him, "in my judgment, the best man the war has yet produced."

The portrait that comes through Catton's facile writing is three-dimensional. Grant's way was not easy. He had to overcome petty jealousies and bickerings among his subordinate generals; he had to yield the exigencies of the moment to the hard realities of politics at times; he had to survive rumors of his own indulgence in alcohol. His one great asset, aside from his own sterling qualities, was the confidence and respect of Abraham Lincoln. One of the most fascinating aspects of "Grant Takes Command" is the development of the relationship between President and general. It was a "unique relationship," Catton writes, particularly because Lincoln "trusted Grant as he had trusted none of his predecessors, trusted him so completely that he did not even ask him how he intended to use the immense power that had been given him" with the promotion to general-in-chief.

There was a time not too many years ago when some historians seemed to take delight in downgrading Grant. The sad story of his White House years is yet to be told by Catton but it seems a modest hope, in the light of the first three volumes, that we are seeing the definitive appraisal of the man and his works.

CARTOONIST CHARLES SCHULZ has every reason in the world to wear a joyous grin. In creating Charlie Brown and the rest of the "Peanuts" gang, he drew himself into a fortune in comic strips, TV shows, stage productions and advertising gimmicks. C. Brown returns to the tube this Sunday night in a repeat of CHARLIE BROWN'S ALL-STARS, and millions who have seen it before will sit down and watch it again.

Television

That rockin' TV group the Monkees, is splitting up. So you'd better hang on to those records—because the Monkees aren't making any more—at least not as a foursome. Member Peter Tork has given up "monkee business" in favor of a solo singing career. There'll be more "monkee shines" though—the other three musicians will continue as a group. Your last chance to see all four fellows together will be on their April 14 NBC-TV special, 3 1/3 Revolution Per Monkee.

Lucille Ball in Here's Lucy will be back next season. Lucy is one comedienne who has never suffered from "over-exposure" on TV and there are still millions of viewers who never tire of watching her antics. A leading TV personality since the early days of TV, her slapstick comedy has kept her high in the ratings for years.

The Guns of Will Sonnett will be removed from the TV schedule this coming season. It's heading for its last roundup and will sink slowly into the West before next fall.

Going No Place

ABC will take Peyton Place off the air next season. Can you imagine the woes of the show's authors, trying to wrap up all those loose ends?

We like Dick Cavett's line about his network censor. Dick says he invited the censor to a swim party, but the fellow had to cancel out at the last minute. He discovered his bathing suit had a moth hole in the knee. Sounds like the same guy the Smothers Brothers are having their troubles with.

On June 3 Star Trek will replace Jerry Lewis. And they will be reruns. But so will the Jerry Lewis shows they're replacing by that time. Both shows disappear forever (except for syndication in the fall).

RANDOM THOUGHTS ON RECENT VIEWING:

Petula Clark's special, Portrait of Petula, was a rarity among musicals in that it was shot on location in London, Paris, New York and beautiful downtown Burbank. Pet took us on a musical journey to her favorite places, and she did it in a quietly sparkling manner.

William Windom was totally brilliant as the guest star on The Outcasts. He was the essence of evil as a white man who disguised himself as a black killer, El Diablo Negro, and earned a reputation for indiscriminately killing Indians.

ERICH LEINSDORF conducts the rehearsal and the performance of "Bartok at Tanglewood: Concerto for Orchestra," a special program on NET FESTIVAL, Wednesday, April 16 at 7:30 p. m., on Channel 17.

DICK VAN DYKE brings on his former series co-star, Mary Tyler Moore, for lots of singing, dancing and fun on "DICK VAN DYKE AND THE OTHER WOMAN." The special is slated for this Sunday night at 8 p. m. on CBS.

with women; and more than slightly funny was Pat Paulsen, inaugurating his physical fitness campaign.

Sid Caesar was at his well-remembered best as a guest on The Dean Martin Show in a skit in which he played a French baker who has saved a girl from suicide. And Burl Ives was excellent as a billionaire despot mired in extreme political views on The Name of the Game.

THE PICK OF THE PROGRAMS IN THE WEEK AHEAD COULD WELL BE:

Today, Sat., April 12

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS (ABC, 5 p. m.). Sporting thrills include the World Surfing Championship from Puerto Rico, the Worlds High Diving Championship from Florida, and the National Air Races from Nevada.

SATURDAY MOVIES (NBC, 9 p. m.). It's "Charade," one of Alfred Hitchcock's better comedy-thrillers. Stars are Cary Grant and Audrey Hepburn. Plot has Miss Hepburn returning from a trip abroad to find her home stripped and her husband missing. She calls on Grant to help her unravel the mystery and the unraveling takes her to many parts of the world.

Once-in-a-Lifetime Opportunity at Niagara Falls

A double attraction is in prospect for Niagara Falls visitors this summer if expected approval of plans to dewater the American Falls is forthcoming.

Visitors will be able to see the water of the Horseshoe Falls taking their usual spectacular 176-foot plunge. And they will also have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to view the American Falls bereft of water.

Occasion will be the dramatic dewatering of the American Falls as part of an international study to determine what can be done to retard erosion of that cataract.

Although no date for the dewatering can be set until the U. S. Senate approves an agreement with Canada on the details, the dewatering has been tentatively set for June. It will continue until December.

The dewatering will be accomplished by installation of an earthen cofferdam at the head of the channel leading to the American Falls. It would extend from the American mainland to the east end of Goat Island, the land mass that separate Niagara's two major cataracts.

Once the cofferdam is installed, geologists and engineers will probe the river bed and the face of the cliff at the American Falls to determine whether remedial action should be taken to diminish the likelihood of future rockslides.

The dewatering is part of an extensive study on the condition of the American Falls. Major rockslides in 1931 and 1954 deposited huge mounds of rock at the base of the cataract, some of them reaching almost halfway toward the brink from the lower river level. Smaller rockslides have occurred from time to time.

In addition to recommending methods to retard erosion, the engineers will determine how much of the rock can be removed to restore the sheer drop at the American Falls.

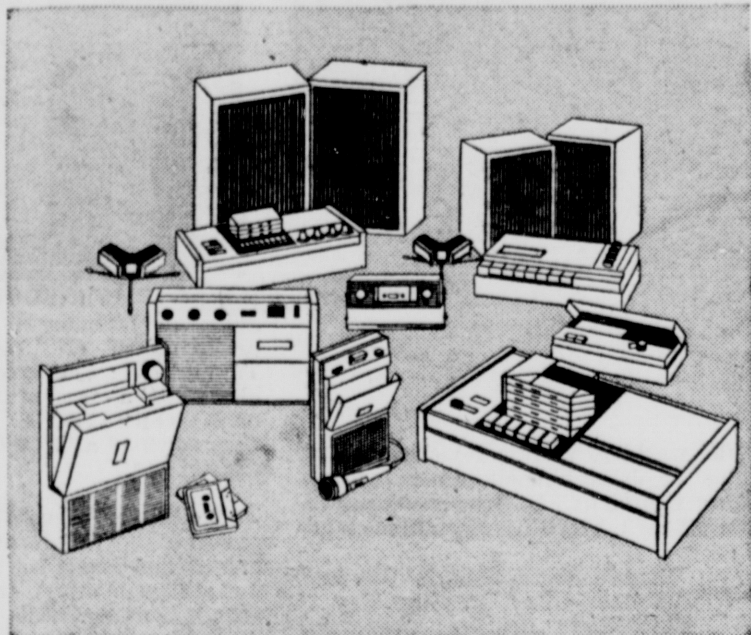

The Horseshoe Falls is not involved in the survey. That cataract, through which the U.S.-Canadian border passes, was the scene of remedial work in the 1950's. The flanks of the Horseshoe Falls were deepened to even the flow and reduce erosion in the center of the cataract. This erosion had been responsible for the crest receding four feet a year in the center of the Horseshoe. Erosion there now is negligible.

Visitors will have the opportunity to walk onto dry river bed ordinarily covered by Niagara River waters on their last tumultuous surge to the American Falls. Arrangements will be made by park officials to permit the unusual exploration.

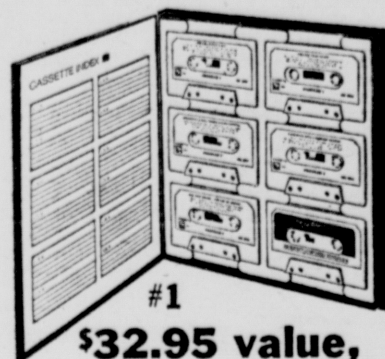

The project is under direction of the International Joint Commission, an agency of the U.S. and Canadian governments responsible for administration of the Niagara River, which is an international waterway. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is supervising the studies for the commission.

sinks in a storm — but near the very island for which they are searching. After adventures galore, the wanderers wander home and we know that everyone will live happily ever after.

For this reviewer, Rex Harrison was simply NOT the Doctor Dolittle we knew in childhood. Though he tries to be endearing, he is simply not round enough, short enough, or whimsical enough to compete with the Dolittle in the illustrations in author Hugh Lofting's classic tales. But don't let our sourness keep you from taking the kiddies. They'll love the amazing fish, fowl and four-footed characters that swim, prance, moo, bray and squawk their way beguilingly about the screen. The color, costumes and sets are perfect; the songs are tuneful and plentiful; and Anthony Newley and Richard Attenborough are fine actors and singers in their respective parts.

It's now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre, so take the kids to a matinee or an early evening show.

The Night They Raided Minsky's

"The Night They Raided Minsky's" is a perfect valentine to oldtime burlesque; mixes fact and fancy in a wonderfully entertaining musical.

It's been in the area before: is now back again on the double bill at the Sunset Drive-In.

We loved the barefaced comedy and the pratfall plot. Britt Ekland is fine as a chaste Amish girl who decides that since dancing is mentioned in the Bible, it's all right for her to join the chorus line at Minsky's Manhattan burlesque house. Jason Robards and the very talented Norman Wisdom come through loud and clear as Minsky's top banana and his sidekick. And Harry Andrews is excellent as the dancer's Amish Papa, who arrives unexpectedly and, in the following confusion, sees his daughter invent the striptease.

Totally colorful, the movie is packed with the steamy atmosphere of New York's Lower East Side in the early 1920's. It captures completely the flavor of burlesque and boasts a memorable last performance by comic Bert Lahr. Boisterous, wiggling, frenetic and funny, "Minsky's" is perfectly marvelous film fare, and its lumpy, dumpy chorus will affect many with twinge of nostalgia.

The Devil's Brigade

During World War II, Lt. Col. Robert T. Frederick (William Holden) creates a tough guerrilla brigade from crack Canadian troops and a mixed lot of U.S. Army misfits. That's basically the plot of "The Devil's Brigade," the film which shares the screen with "The Night They Raided Minsky's" at the Sunset Drive-In. In a delapidated Montana camp, the Colonel welds his men — suspicious, unfriendly and uncooperative — into a tough outfit that will fight to win. With the help of Major Crown (Cliff Robertson), a quietly efficient Canadian officer, the two groups are whipped into a formidable brigade; undertake an impossible assignment in Italy to aid General Mark Clark. Clark's forces are held back by Germans, strongly entrenched in the mountains south of Rome.

Their course is set for the capture of a supposedly impregnable mountain and by scaling its sheer rock walls, they succeed where others have failed. It all ends in a vivid, tense finale with considerable loss of life.

About Malamud, Bellow, and Roth

The second session of the Jewish Community Center's adult literature course, "Essays on Jewish-American Writers," will take place Tuesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Center, 96 Maiden Lane, Kingston.

The course is conducted by Lawrence P. Borzurnato, Assistant Professor of English at Ulster County Community College.

The book to be discussed Tuesday is "The Magic Barrel" by Bernard Malamud and participants are asked to read the book before the session. The book is available in paperback edition, Dell 5153.

Subsequent sessions will be conducted on April 29 and May 13. The book to be discussed April 29 is "Herzog" by Saul Bellow and, on May 13, the book will be "Goodbye, Columbus" by Philip Roth.

Participants may attend one

Gone With the Wind

Always worth re-seeing as a piece of Hollywood nostalgia. Re-processed for wide screen and stereophonic sound, it's now paying at Red Hook's Lyceum Theatre. Even though it's out of the museum, Vivien Leigh's acting still glows, the anti-war viewpoint has acquired new meaning in light of Vietnam, and easy-criers will still drip tears in the same soapy, sad places. As the older generation knows, it's a sprawling Civil War drama from Margaret Mitchell's famed book and gives us a romantic, pro-Dixie slant through such actors as Clark Gable, Leslie Howard, Olivia de Havilland, Hattie McDaniel and Butterfly McQueen. Going Gourmet

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Just to be foxy, this column is going out of town this week—mainly because we've found ourselves in Albany on several occasions during the past month. And while there, we made a "find of finds" in restaurants.

On the premise that some of our readers will have reason to be in the capital city on occasion in the future, and looking for a popular and pretty place to eat—we'd like to introduce you to the Golden Fox Steak House.

Fox is a restaurant that is superior in cuisine and decor; hardly needs our recommendation since it received the National Restaurant Association's Great Menu Award in 1968.

Those Nice Touches

It's located at 1400 Central Avenue in the city of politics and government and has some exceptionally nice touches. All dinners include a bubbling pot of soup, delicious bakers breads, golden fox salad with a sextet of dressings to select from, a tasty scoop of cheese and garnish, a baked potato that's a masterpiece, and an array of Lazy Susan items.

Another touch is the Raw Bar: its counter-top burgeoning with such sublime delicacies as Cherrystone or Little Neck Clams, Fresh Pink Shrimp Cocktail, Chesapeake Oysters, Alaskan King Crabmeat, Maine Lobster Cocktail, and Australian Lobster Tails.

Draught wine and draught beer are served; there's entertainment at the Piano Bar; and a whimsical touch is the occasional tinkle of the hurdy-gurdy music heralding the happy presence of the big wine barrels. The wine is served in measures bearing the official seal of Rome and can be had for $.60 a glass or $1 for a measure for two.

A good bartender is hard to find, and the Fox has one of the finest in the state. Worth every penny is the 10 to 1 Martini made with Beefeaters gin and Martini Rossi Dry and served with an Anchovy Olive. Or, if you prefer to emulate Babe Ruth (legend has it the Babe drank his mixed drinks down in one gulp straight from the mixer), try the Golden Fox Giant. It's a thirst quencher for sure; offers a choice of double extra dry Martini or Manhattan served in your very own mixer, which you can take home.

A Classic Menu

Needless to say, Golden Fox is charming, everything is beautifully done, and service is excellent. The offerings are classic and, for a beginning, try such unusual appetizers as: seasonal parfait of fruits, pot of shrimp with devil's sauce, pan roast of clams on toast, or a dish of scallops with wine sauce. The array of steaks and chops available is of high order, and there's a tenderloin steak on herbed toast served in a skillet with a bouquet of fresh vegetables, baked potato and salad that is superb.

Selected Western prime beef is aged on the premises, and among the flavorful and well prepared menu attractions are: broiled strip sirloin served on oak with ruffled potatoes and vegetable bouquet; tenderloin steak served on a skewer and marinated in wine and flavored with herbs and spices; London broil of beef with wine sauce; broiled lamb chops served with broiled peach and mint jelly; stuffed roulades of beef; and fillet of beef stroganoff with red wine and sour cream.

'Cinepoem' in Films

The "Cinepoem" was explored in Bennett College's Fine Arts film series recently in Matthi-son-Kennedy Auditorium. The movies, to which the public was invited, consisted of three films by Man Ray and three by Dimitri Kirsanov.

Ray was an avant garde artist; Kirsanov was a Russian who went to Paris to study music and instead became a commercial filmmaker. Despite their differing backgrounds, both evolved a similar approach to movie-making and are a link between the realism in films that preceded them and the surrealism that was to follow.

Earlier cinema artists were extremely technique-conscious. Ray and Kirsanov, working in the mid-20s, attempted to reduce the impact of technique and produce a more poetic concern for the real.

The Ray films shown were "Emak Bakia," a 1927 production in which he was still concerned with Dadism; "L'Etoile du Mer," a 1928 film that is almost pointless in effect; and "Les Mysteres du Chateau du De," made in 1929 and close to surrealism.

The Kirsanov pictures were the 1925 "Menilmontant," one of his early amateur attempts and still identified as "the nearly perfect film;" and two of his much later commercial films of the 1950s—"Arriere Saison" and "Mort du Cerf"—both of which show the intensification of the cinepoem form through the addition of sound effects.

Sunday, April 13
CHARLIE BROWN'S ALL-STARS (CBS, 7:30 p. m.). Now we know the baseball season is really here. Charlie Brown says so on this repeat, still a delightful little gem—even if you've seen it before. It's the one involving a baseball team so inept it makes you think the Mets are composed of nine Joe Di-Maggios. Well, Charlie Brown's team as 999 straight defeats, hasn't it?

DICK VAN DYKE AND THE OTHER WOMAN (CBS, 8 p. m.). A happy reunion takes place tonight between millions of viewers and Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore. Just the two of them sing, dance and do funny skits. She plays a suffragette, a flapper, Rosie the Riveter and today's woman. He pantomimes a man getting ready to leave the house and preparing for the day according to the radio news. They also do a ski lodge dance on crutches and portray a couple on the top of a wedding cake.

DINAH SHORE'S LIKE HEP (NBC, 9 p. m.). Dinah pokes fun at Dinah and welcome such guests as Lucille Ball, Rowan and Martin, and Diana Ross in her first appearance without the Supremes. Dinah appears in a gangster skit! Lucy plays an unhappy fairy godmother; Dinah and Diana portray a sister act discovered by Super Agent Dick Martin.

Connie With Joey
Connie Francis will make an appearance on ABC-TV's Joey Bishop Show on April 29. This will be the only TV appearance the singer makes while in California for an important photo session. A few days after the Bishop appearance, Miss Francis will open at the Riviera in Las Vegas.

Supermarkets Spread
Self-service supermarkets have spread rapidly in Europe in the past decade. They now account for 25 per cent of all food sales in Germany alone.

Monday, April 14
MONKEES (NBC, 8 p. m.). The Monkees—Mickey Dolenz, Davy Jones, Mike Nesmith and Peter Tork—rock again in this super psychedelic hour—with such guests as Julie Discoll, Fats Domino, Jerry Lee Lewis, Little Richard, the Clara Ward Singers, the Buddy Miles Express, and others.

CAROL CHANNING (ABC, 9 p. m.). A special in which Danny Thomas and Carol Burnett join Miss Channing for a lighthearted look at the seven deadly sins.

OSCAR AWARDS (ABC, 10 p. m.). The 41st Academy Awards are telecast from Los Angeles with Academy president Gregory Peck in charge and such hosts as Warren Beatty, Ingrid Bergman, Dian-ann Carroll, Jane Fonda, Burt Lancaster, Walter Matthau, Sidney Poitier, Frank Sinatra, Barbra Streisand and Natalie Wood.

Tuesday, April 15
NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC (CBS, 7:30 p. m.). All about a New Jersey family spending an adventurous year in French Polynesia.

NEWS SPECIAL (CBS, 10 p. m.). "The College Turmoil," an attempt to shed light, rather than heat on the current student unrest in such schools as the University of Michigan, Brandeis, and San Francisco State.

Thursday, April 17
CINDERELLA (CBS, 7:30 p. m.). The musical fantasy by Rodgers and Hammerstein. Cast includes Lesley Ann Warren, Stuart Damon, Ginger Rogers, Walter Pidgeon, Celeste Holm, Jo Van Fleet, Pat Carroll and Barbara Ruick.

MOVIE (CBS, 9 p. m.). A star-laden cast performs in "U-M-C," a drama of University Medical Center. In the film are Edward G. Robinson, James Daly, Kim Stanley, Maurice Evans, Kevin McCarthy, William Windom, Don Quine, Shelley Fabares, James Shigeta, William Marshall and Alfred Ryder. A pilot for a fall series, it's brand new. (COM-PILED BY T. GEERTSEMA)

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
Charlie Goble treated his offspring to Easter dinner at Sawyerkill Restaurant where he promised there'd be waitresses dressed like bunnies. There were, but Charlie's and his youngsters' definition of "bunnies" traveled different trails. . . . Mrs. Cyrus Derby won prettiest Easter hat award at chapeau-making contest in Tillsong; with a name like that, one might say she had a head start.

We'd say the largest Easter egg of the season was the one the weatherman laid for Easter Saturday, a bit scrambled to say the least. But, as he arranged for a sunny Sunday, all is forgiven. . . . What well-dressed Kingston gentleman went to church on Easter Sunday with his pants over his pj's? (We know it happened; his wife let the hen out-of-the-basket.)

Clergymen at Mt. St. Alphonsus recently did a take-off on Fiddler on the Roof which they christened "Anatevka." To say the performance was well received would be the understatement of the century. . . . After seeing that IBM movie about Ulster County, if we didn't live here already, we'd pack up and move tout de suite. . . . Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow, the former Freeman Society Editor Marianne Davis, is pulling off a Jim Thompson. No, she hasn't put on weight, but she IS starting a Hurley News Report for WGHQ on Thursdays.

Every mountain climber and his brother could NOT have been scaling the highest cliffs that entire recent weekend, else how could they ALL have been at Gov. Clinton Hotel for "3500 Club" banquet? For those who aspire to get up-in-the-world, all you have to do to be eligible for membership is climb 34 mountains with cliffs higher than 3500 feet—four in winter.

Everybody must be doing it; 27 new members last year. Dot and Jim Matthews attended the gala, as did Ed West and wife; Woodstock Jaycee Man-of-the-Year Nelson Shultis and Frances; former Kingstonian Alice Millionig Beehler and husband Clarence, now of Red Hook—she's sister-in-law of former assistant D.A. Bob MacKinnon; and many members of Red Hook High School Hiking Club.

Just a heaven-kissing group that's aiming higher.

A trip to Lake Minnewaska Mountain House is a journey back in time-machine. Looming like early 19th Century, it overflows with old fashioned boarding house nostalgia, weathered beams and candlelight, butter-milk, strained clover honey and homemade egg custard. Guests play chess, ski or skate (weather permitting) but when the moon comes out they're all at that little ol' wine cellar—called, of all things, The Wine Cellar—reeling to music of Mello-Tones or listening to recital by Maxwell Shepherd. Host-owner Ken Phillips—he's married to former Jane Elston—is so proud of bulletin board clippings of sons Hadley and Stanley, first and second place winners in recent Orange Co. ski meet. The spot is a positive boon for sports-minded, what with golfing, tennis, swimming, riding, canoeing, sailboating. If it wasn't for bumping into waiter, Bobby Fertel—the one touch of Kingston—we'd have thought we were in Europe.
